THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION.

VOL. XXI. ATLANTA, GA., WEDNESDAY MORNING, APRIL 9, 1890.—TEN PAGES. PRICE FIVE CENTS.

THE "FUTURES" BILL.

THE COMMITTEE ON AGRICULTURE CONSIDER IT.

TERMS OF THE BUTTERWORTH BILL.

It Is Aimed at the Bucket Shops—What the Report of the Committee Says About Dealings in Futures.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The house committee on agriculture today reported to the house, with amendments, the Butterworth bill to define options and futures and to impose a special tax upon dealers therein, etc.

The first and second sections of the bill define the character of transactions known as "futures" and "option" contracts.

The third section mentions articles to which the bill applies. They are wheat, corn, oats, cotton, pork and some other farm staples.

Section four imposes a special tax of $1,000 upon dealers in options and futures, as defined in the bill, and a tax of five cents per pound and twenty cents per bushel upon articles which are the subject matter of sales under futures and option contracts. Other sections of the bill provide for carrying the provisions of the act into effect.

WHAT THE COMMITTEE SAY.

An elaborate report was also submitted. In it the committee says the bill, in terms, does, and is intended to, apply to that class of transactions conducted in the "bucket shops" and "grain pits" of the country, and known as "puts" and "calls," including the whole range of mere speculative gambling in fictitious farm products. It does not affect, injuriously, any legitimate trader, or dealer, in farm staples. The bill seeks to impose an internal revenue tax upon these "dealers" in grain, cotton and pork, who, as a rule, never see, open or handle pork or a pound of the articles they deal in. It applies to "dealers" whose transactions have the least possible reference to supply and still less reference to demand for consumption; who are not concerned whether the harvests are blighted or plentiful. The bill, in terms, affects transactions for future delivery, which are innocent in themselves and do no harm to any one, but it is intended to reach that class of speculators only who sell what they do not own, who sell with no purpose or intent to deliver what they sell; who require little capital or stock in trade, and yet who sell in "bucket shops" of the United States every month more wheat than is grown in the whole world in a year, thus, in a great measure, destroying trade, driving merchants from the field and forcing the price of farm products below the cost of production,

ITS EFFECT ON TRADE.

It is urged, says the committee, that the influence of this bill will greatly hamper and restrict trade, but so far from the proposed measure affecting trade, the exact reverse is true. It is not the object of the proposed law, nor will its effect be, to improperly interfere with the prosecution of any legitimate industry, which adds to the supply of anything needful; but obviously those who deal in futures and option contracts do not accomplish any useful purpose; on the contrary, they speculate in fictitious products.

The committee states that the influence upon the market of dealing in "puts" and "calls" is to reduce the market price to a rate below the cost of production. The committee has no doubt of the constitutionality of the measure.

AN AMENDMENT ADDED.

It added an amendment to section two of the original bill, providing that the act shall not apply to any contracts or agreements for the future delivery of any of said articles made with the United States or any state or county, or with duly authorized officers or agents thereof, nor to contracts or agreements made by farmers for the sale and delivery of any of the articles aforesaid which are in course of production by such farmers at the time of making such contract or agreement. These contracts are obviously not improper, says the committee, because the exceptions do not open the door to contracts made by grain pits.

WILL ARGUE BEFORE THE COMMITTEE.

NEW YORK, April 8.—A great deal of opposition is manifested here by members of the produce and cotton exchanges against the so-called "Butterworth bill" now before congress. Today it was determined to send to Washington a committee from the two exchanges to appear before the committee on agriculture. They will leave for Washington tomorrow afternoon. From the Chicago board of trade and New Orleans cotton exchange similar committees have gone to Washington and will work in conjunction with the New York delegation.

NEW ORLEANS' PROTEST.

NEW ORLEANS, April 8.—At a meeting of the board of directors of the New Orleans Cotton exchange today a series of resolutions were adopted in which they earnestly invoke the aid of senators and representatives in congress from Louisiana toward the defeat of the Butterworth bill practically prohibiting the sale of articles for future delivery.

THE ANTI-TRUST BILL.

It Passes the Senate—The Montana Contest Case.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Mr. Edmunds gave notice that as soon as the Montana election case would be disposed of, the judiciary committee would endeavor to bring up the anti-trust bill, as reported by the committee in obedience to the order of the senate.

Mr Hoar presented a memorial of the Universalist ministers of Boston and vicinity declaring profound regret at the defeat of the Blair educational bill, which they considered as "a calamity to the nation," and expressing the hope that such defeat is not final and that the matter may be reconsidered.

Mr. Call offered a preamble and resolution, which went over till tomorrow reciting the published statements as to the packing of juries in the northern district of Florida, of which Charles E. Swayne is judge and Joseph Stripling, district attorney, and instructing the judiciary committee to take evidence in the matter.

THE MONTANA CONTEST.

The senate then resumed consideration of the Montana contested election case, and Mr. Spooner continued his argument in favor of the right of the republican claimants—Sanders and Power.

Mr. Pugh, a member of the committee on privileges and elections, argued in favor of the minority report, declaring Messrs. Clark and Maginnis entitled to seats. When he had spoken for about half an hour, there were but two seats occupied on the republican side of the chamber.

Mr. George called attention to the fact, and said that the discussion was a very important one; that the matter was very serious to the people of Montana as well as to the people of the United States; that those who were to pass on it as judges should be present to hear about the facts and the law; and he therefore suggested that there was no quorum present.

The presiding officer directed the clerk to call the roll, and the result was that thirty-nine senators (less than a quorum) answered to their names.

Mr. Harris moved that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to request the attendance of absent senators.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. Gibson moved to adjourn. Not agreed to. Yeas, 24; nays, 28; (democrats voted in affirmative and republicans in the negative).

Pending the announcement, Mr. Butler, who was paired with Mr. Cameron, asked whether the vote was a party one, and was told by Mr. Hoar that it certainly was a party vote, and one on which the democratic party was entirely right—a confession for which Mr. Butler expressed his acknowledgments.

Mr. Butler having stated that Mr. Pugh was not well enough to continue his speech, it was agreed that the Montana election case should be laid aside for the day, and the anti-trust bill taken up.

Mr. Voorhees sent to the clerk's desk and had read a telegram received today, from Helena, Montana, stating that at the election in that city yesterday, the democrats had elected their mayor by over 300 majority, and that the republicans (who usually had a majority of from 400 to 600) had carried only one ward.

Mr. Spooner's sarcastic comment upon the telegram was that, "that ought to settle it," and Mr. Hoar's was that that was the strongest argument yet produced on the democratic side.

THE ANTI-TRUST BILL.

The senate then at 3:40 took up the anti-trust bill as reported from the judiciary committee.

Mr. Sherman (the bill having been read) said that while the bill was not all that he wanted, he believed that it was the best that could be got, and he would, therefore, vote for it as it stood.

Mr. Vest said that he was satisfied, on reflection, that public interest required the passage of the bill as it stood; and he was, therefore, prepared to sacrifice his private judgment as to one of the sections, in order to facilitate the immediate passage of the bill. He hoped it would go through without delay and without amendment.

Mr. Reagan offered an amendment extending jurisdiction in the matter to state courts of competent jurisdiction; and Messrs. Vest and Hoar opposed the amendment on the ground that it was not competent for congress to confer jurisdiction on state courts.

Mr. George, while favoring the bill, expressed his fear that its effects would be very disappointing. He would follow Mr. Reagan's amendment by another, providing that it shall be lawful for any number of persons complaining of such injury committed by the same defendant against each of them, to join as plaintiffs, and for the court or jury to find the amount of damages separately.

Mr. Reagan's amendment was rejected—yeas 12, nays 37.

Mr. George's amendment was also rejected by a viva voce vote.

The bill was then passed—yeas 52, nays 1—(Blodgett.)

TALKING FOR THE NAVY.

The Desire for Liberal Appropriations to Build War Ships.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The committee on naval affairs called up the bill to prevent the enlistment of aliens in the naval service of the United States. The bill further provides that aliens now in the service shall not be permitted to re-enlist at the expiration of their present term.

Mr. McAdoo said that the measure had the hearty approval of the secretary of the navy. Under its provisions it would be but three years before the navy would be manned entirely by American citizens.

Mr. Boutelle offered an amendment that the act shall go into effect July 1, 1890. This would operate so as not to prevent the re-enlistment of aliens on United States vessels at foreign stations. Adopted.

Mr. Lind, of Minnesota, offered an amendment providing that enlistment and service in the navy for five years shall be construed to be residence in the United States for the purpose of securing citizenship. Adopted.

An amendment was also adopted permitting the enlistment of aliens in cases of emergency on foreign stations.

The bill was then passed.

Mr. Adams, of Illinois, called up the motion to reconsider the vote by which the house defeated the bill making an appropriation to supply the deficiency caused by the Silcott defalcation. In supporting the motion, Mr. Payson, of Illinois, reviewed the decision of the court of claims in the Crain case. This decision had been submitted by the attorney general to the secretary of the treasury for his recommendation in the premises. He (Payson) had seen the secretary of the treasury, and that official had authorized him to state to the house that the treasury department was content with the decision, and that no appeal would be taken from it.

Mr. Holman moved to table the motion to reconsider. Lost.

The vote was then reconsidered, and the bill was passed. The house then went into committee of the whole on the naval appropriation bill.

Mr. Holman expressed his astonishment at the magnitude of the naval programme marked out by the secretary of the navy, and initiated by this bill. He contended that the existing navy, comprising sixty-seven vessels of the first, second, third and fourth classes, and not including smaller vessels, was amply adequate for every purpose for which the United States could need a navy. He ridiculed the idea that the United States was in a vulnerable position. It was the least vulnerable of all nations of the world.

Mr. McAdoo, of New Jersey, read from Jefferson a plea for a fleet adequate for coast defense, and to prevent a blockade of our ports. He denied that a powerful navy was a menace to a free people. The navy, unlike an army, never endangered the liberties of a country, and should not excite jealousy on that account.

After further remarks by Mr. Boutelle, and a speech by Mr. Lodge, of Massachusetts, advocating liberal appropriations, the new navy bill was taken up by sections; but without completing its detailed consideration, the committee rose, and at 5:25 the house adjourned.

IN BEHALF OF THE SOUTH.

A Minority Report to Be Made on the Compound Lard Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Representatives McClammy and Morgan have united in a minority report in opposition to the compound lard bill reported by the house committee on agriculture. They argue that as lard is now sold almost entirely in small tin pails, it must be apparent that the effect and object of the law is to forever destroy the sale of lard compounds. The severity and variety of penalties of the bill are unusual and out of proportion to the offenses. The reports defends compound lard as composed of the three agricultural products—lard, fat and cotton seed oil—not at all deletorious to health, but nutritious and wholesome. Therefore, there is no need for legislation on that score.

THE PUBLIC NOT DECEIVED.

As to the contention that the public has been deceived by false labels, the minority declare that the manufacturers have voluntarily agreed to brand their goods "compound lard," and are living up to their agreement, and it has been admitted before the committee that the manufacturers faithfully and correctly brand their goods. Therefore, the minority do not feel that there is any possible justification for the proposed legislation. The bill creates an invidious discrimination against part of an industry at the demand of other branches of the same trade which are conducted in a manner more objectionable and obnoxious to the public. It was conclusively shown, the minority says, that the so-called "pure lard," which the bill aims to protect, is often made from hogs which are diseased, or in a state unfit for slaughter, and that as a rule it is made from filthy and objectionable portions of the hog, which no one would be willing to eat with a knowledge of the fact. The testimony, the minority say, shows that it is of itself an adulteration of a most vicious character. The regulations should begin at the first step and not at the last, and if the friends of the measure are really solicitous for the public welfare, and are anxious that the consumer should know what he is eating, they ought cordially to support the measure (the McClammy bill) which would cover the manufacture from beginning to end.

LIAR AND COWARD.

EPITHETS GIVEN BY MR. PHELAN TO MR. FLEMING.

TWO TENNESSEEANS IN A QUARREL.

Mr. Fleming Criticises Mr. Phelan's Book and Publishes Several Newspaper Articles—The Little Message Sent.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The report has gained wide circulation tonight that it was probable a duel would be fought between Mr. Phelan, of Memphis, Tenn., and John M. Fleming, editor of the Knoxville, Tenn., Sentinel. It was said that Phelan had sent a telegram to Fleming, which would probably induce the latter to issue a challenge. An Associated Press reporter called on Mr. Phelan tonight, and during his presence at Mr. Phelan's house, Phelan was notified by wire from Memphis that Fleming had written an editorial reply to his dispatch. He also stated that Fleming admitted that he had not published the dispatch in full. Mr. Phelan said as soon as he saw the editorial he would reply to it. He, however, refused to make any statement whatever, or to discuss the matter at all. Following is a copy of the message:

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 6, 1890.—John M. Fleming, Knoxville, Tenn.: When I wrote from Aiken I had not seen your letter to the Memphis Commercial. You are a liar, a coward and a scoundrel. I will await your message here and come to Knoxville to arrange preliminaries.

JAMES H. PHELAN.

Mr. Phelan's dispatch to Mr. Fleming was based on a letter of the latter to the Memphis Commercial, an independent paper of that place. A Tennessean, who is conversant with the facts, says that in replying to some criticisms of Fleming on Phelan's School History, Phelan had said Fleming had asked for an advance copy of the book or of another book he had written on Tennessee, and that the criticisms were due to pique because he had not been given an advance copy. This Fleming denied and Phelan wrote an apology to Fleming's paper, the Sentinel. Previous to this Phelan had made the same charge in a letter to the Memphis Commercial. Phelan also wrote an apology to this paper. Fleming replied in a letter to the Commercial, refusing to accept the apology, which the editor had pronounced ample, and in a sneering tone intimated that Mr. Phelan had practiced deception from the first. This letter Phelan did not see for some days.

MIDNIGHT ASSASSINATION.

David Hunnicutt Shot Dead by an Unknown Man.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—[Special.]—David Hunnicutt, a railroad contractor, was assassinated at his home at Henry Ellen, twelve miles from this city, last night. He had just finished supper and walked into the sittingroom when the assassin fired through a window. The ball struck Hunnicutt in the throat, severing the jugular vein and killing him almost instantly. The ball was fired from a rifle of large calibre. The only clew to the assassin is that some time ago Hunnicutt had a difficulty with a negro who was in his employ, and that negro is now missing. A search is being made for him, and if he is caught in the vicinity of the crime tonight he will probably be lynched.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

The Democrats Make Gains in Ten Elections on Monday.

CINCINNATI, April 8.—At yesterday's city election the total vote was 43,500, which is over 7,000 less than at last year's April election, and nearly 30,000 less than the registration.

Sam F. Hunt, democrat, for superior judge, has thirteen majority. Emil Rehse, republican, for clerk of the police court, has 2,000 majority. The other two democratic candidates were elected by 600 and 1,000 majority, respectively. The council has a republican majority of two and the board of education of six.

Dispatches from over the state show the vote light. At Mount Gilead the republicans elected their entire ticket. Also at Camden, with one exception. The democrats prevailed at Joinville, Canton, Celina, Bacyrus, Sandusky, Springfield, Ashland, Millersburg, Dayton, and Hamilton. Mixed results, mainly in favor of the democrats, obtained at Fremont, Logan, Wooster, Galvan, Zanesville, Newark, Chillicothe, Middletown, St. Marys, and Findlay.

The republicans elected the greater portion of their ticket in Batavia, Defiance, Elyria, Covington, Akron, Van Wert, Harrison, Lancaster, Oxford, Piqua, Cambridge, Xenia, Norwalk (a tie), Lima, Steubenville, Marion, Urbana, London, New Richmond, Washington, Youngstown, Tiffin, Athens, Bellfontaine, Massillon, Alliance and Greenfield.

DEMOCRATIC EVANSVILLE

EVANSVILLE, Ind., April 8.—The city and township elections here yesterday resulted in favor of the democrats for every office except township trustee and two justices, one of the latter being Captain Martin Klause, a well known union artillery officer during the war. Returns have been slow coming in. The result is attributed to local causes. The colored men voted largely for the independent candidates for council in the first ward. There were four candidates there—a republican, democrat, republican bolter and prohibitionist. The latter class polled an unexpectedly large vote. The new council stands ten democrats, two republicans. Out of eight township trustees in this county, the republicans elect six, the democrats two. The vote cast was lighter than usual

DES MOINES, Ia., April 8.—The election yesterday was very quiet, only a light vote being polled. At midnight, it is thought the entire republican ticket is elected. There are twenty-one precincts in the city, including the recently annexed portion.

KEOKUK, Ia., April 8.—In the municipal election yesterday, the democrats elected an assessor and four aldermen.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN ALBANY.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 8.—A charter election was held in this city to-day. J. H. Manning, managing editor of the Albany Argus, democratic candidate for mayor, has a majority of 7,245; a democratic gain on the vote for mayor two years ago of 4,555. The democrats carry every ward but one for supervisors, and every ward but two for aldermen.

The Rhode Island Elections.

PROVIDENCE, R. I. April 8.—Cranston and Jamestown (republicans) were elected representatives today. North Smith and West Greenwich failed to elect. Under the statute the present representatives held over, but an endeavor will be made to hold another town meeting before midnight today, being the last day when an election can be held outside of this city. If the sitting representative hold over the legislature will stand: Republicans 52, Democrats 37, with nine to be elected from Providence. The republicans will then need to elect two to control the grand committee, while the democrats have to elect eight to accomplish the same object.

Iowa's Election Bill.

DES MOINES, Ia., April 8.—The House spent the morning considering the remaining sections of the Australian ballot bill, and passed the measure by a vote of 86 to 9. The bill as passed, provides that all ballots shall be printed at public expense. Nominations are to be certified to by officers of conventions or committeeman, and vacancies occurring from any cause before the elections, are to be filled in the same manner. Printed ballots shall contain the names for the position, also space for other names if any are desired to be voted for. At each polling place full instructions for voting must be posted. The method of preparation of the the ballot is the same as used in Montana and Massachusetts.

MR. RANDALL VERY SICK.

He is Delirious at Times and is Very Weak.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—While Samuel J. Randall's condition has been serious at all times for many months, he has been worse during the last two or three days. His mind, which is usually clear and bright, has at times been clouded and he has not seemed aware of what was going on. This was attended by an alarming loss of vitality, fears for the worse were entertained while in this condition, but this morning he began to rally and improve. He was said to be better at 11 o'clock tonight.

THE CZAR IMPROVING.

He will Return to the Palace on the 20th—The Riotous Students.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 8.—The Czar has entirely recovered from his indisposition. He will return to the imperial palace at Gatschina, on April 20th. A commission of officials of ministers of public instruction and police have made inquiry into the recent riots among the students at the Technological institute. As a result of their investigation twenty-six students will be expelled from St. Petersburg. Other students have been arrested.

A LETTER FROM THE STUDENTS.

LONDON, April 8.—Nine Moscow students have written a long letter to the Daily Telegraph protesting against the condemnation of their movements by that paper. The writers insist that the government prescribes an examination which present difficulties impossible for the students to overcome, the object being to prevent them from securing degrees. They further declare that with the same intention students are allowed the greatest freedom, the police of university towns conniving at gambling, dissipation and other immoral practices among them. The agitation, it is stated, is further directed towards securing justice for the Jews, who are excluded from the univesrities The letter asks the Telegraph to plead the cause of the students when they are in Siberia, whither they will probably be sent.

AGAINST THE SCHEME.

Gladstone and Labouchere Speak on the Land Purchase Bill.

LONDON, April 8.—Mr. Labouchere, speaking at Newton abbey today, said that although the government might be willing to adopt Lord Randolph Churchill's scheme of land purchase, the liberals were unwilling to guarantee a farthing to Irish landlords.

Mr. Gladstone, in an address to deputations at Tring railway station yesterday, said that the land bill was in rather a fishy condition, to judge from its reception even among friends of the government. He would be glad if he could approve the principle of the bill, but he could not, as it gravely risked British credit. A very stiff, awkward and indigestable point would be raised if, after the money had been lent, the debtors should not only say, but prove, that they never borrowed it, and in defense of their position should say, "You forced it upon us; therefore, you cannot with decency and justice pretend to extract it from us."

THE BOY WAS HANGED

For Killing His Father in Order to Save the Life of His Mother.

LONDON, April 8.—Appeals made in behalf of Richard Davies, the eighteen year old boy, who together with his brother George, sixteen years old, were sentenced to death for the murder of his father at Crewe, were unavailing and today the prisoner was hanged. The younger brother, as announced, last week, was granted a reprieve by the home secreary.

Riots in Vienna.

VIENNA, April 8.—The rioters stoned the police from the shelter of half built houses and when the police stormed their strongholds the rioters fled. There were similar scenes in the suburbs throughout the day. Late at night the rain began to fall and assisted in restoring order. The rioters afterwards sacked another town and smashed all the windows in the place. Every vehicle that passed was stoned by the mobs. Two squadrons of cavalry and a battalion of infantry dispersed the rioters. Many civilians and fourteen policemen were wounded. Thirty-seven persons were arrested.

Duelling Regulations in Germany.

BERLIN, April 8.—It is stated that Emperor William will appoint a court of honor to deal with quarrels between officers in the army. The emperor will only permit a duel to be fought for a blow or insult to a lady relative or fiancee when the offender refuses to apologize.

The Duke Will be Pardoned Today.

PARIS, April 8.—The Rapel says the decree pardoning the duke of Orleans has been prepared, and will be issued tomorrow. A cabinet meeting was held at the Palace Elysee today. The subject under discussion was the release of the duke of Orleans.

THE SISTARE FAILURE.

How the Defalcation Was Found Out—Preparing a Statement.

NEW YORK, April 8.—[Special.]—The assignment of W. H. M. Sistare & Harold Clems, of the firm of G. K. Sistare Sons, bankers and brokers, at No. 14 Broad street, to Henry J. Davison, Jr., was filed today. George Reed, of Detroit, and M. Feldmeir, of New York, are the only preferred creditors. The preferences to the former are $10,000, and to the later $5,000, both being for money due on stock transactions. No statement of assets and liabilities as yet.

At the office of the firm it was stated that they were at work on a statement to give to the public. The firm's affairs are certainly sadly mixed and the shortage in Philadelphia is now placed at half a million. It is stated by connections of the firm that the defalcation in Philadelphia was accidentally discovered. One of their largest customers who had been charged with the loan in Philadelphia happened in the office and was informed that the firm would be glad to accommodate him with a larger amount. The customer replied that he had borrowed nothing and did not need accommodation. This led to an investigation that resulted in the discovery of the shortage.

THE TELLER MISSING

And so Is the Forty Thousand Dollars of a Bank's Money.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 8.—Frederic Kimball, thirty-five years old, teller of the People's Saving bank, in this city, is missing, and with him are $43,500 of the bank's funds. The bank will lose but $33,500, as the Fidelity and Casualty company, of New York, is on his bond for $10,000.

This loss will in no way affect the bank's solvency, as it has assets of $5,570,000, and quick assets of more than $2,000,000. Its loss is more than covered by the increase in the value of its securities. Kimball disappeared last Wednesday when he left, saying he was going to Boston to a dog show.

A Bank Suspends.

MANHATTAN, Kan., April 8.—The Manhattan bank closed its doors this morning and posted the following notice; "Closed. John W. Webb, temporary assignee." No particulars can be learned at this writing.

The Interstate Drill.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., April 8.—The interstate drill, under the auspices of the Subtropical exposition, opened today. The only contest today was for the medal for the best individual drill in the school of soldiers. There were twenty-six entries from six different companies. Arthur W. Pye, of Gainesville, Fla., Seminary cadets, carried off the prize.

Tomorrow the state troops contest comes off. There are six entries. The city is full of visiting soldiers.

THE CYCLONE AGAIN.

NORWALK, OHIO, VISITED BY A SEVERE ONE.

A FACTORY THROWN TO THE GROUND

And Several of the Employes Killed—The Conflicting Reports from Prophetstown, Indiana.

CLEVELAND, O., April 8.—A cyclone struck Norwalk, Ohio, about 5 o'clock this afternoon. The storm came from the northwest, and swept a track about a half mile wide from the eastern limits of the city, and a long distance in the country. The umbrella factory of Sprague & French was in the path of the cyclone. A part of the building in which thirty young women were employed was crushed like an egg shell. Many of the girls escaped, but others were caught in the falling building.

Dora Palmer, aged nineteen, had her skul crushed and died.

Nellie Harding was seriously injured about the head; Miss Brush had her collar bone broken and was otherwise injured. Several other girls, whose names are not given, received injuries. Many barns were blown down and other small buildings were wrecked. Trees were uprooted and fences torn down in all directions. The force of the wind was unprecedented in that section.

At 7 o'clock this evening another terrific storm visited the city, the wind blowing a gale and hailstones as big as hickory nuts falling, smashing windows and demolishing greenhouses.

A dispatch from Collins, Ohio, a few miles from Norwalk, says: A very heavy and serious cyclone passed through this place at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Between fifteen and twenty buildings, mostly dwellings, were completely wrecked, and several people injured. Mr. Houff and daughter were seriously hurt.

THE DAMAGE AT PROPHETSTOWN.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A special from St. Louis, Mo., to the Daily News says: Advices received here at 3 o'clock this morning say the village of Prophetstown, Ill., has been blown from the face of the earth by a tornado. The only definite news obtainable was received from train hands on a stock train which pulled out of Prophetstown just after the disaster. The town is located about forty miles from Burlington, Ia., on a small branch of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy road. The train hands report that the railroad depot was blown down and the station agent buried beneath the ruins. A small Presbyterian church on the main street was blown down and the steeple carried fully one hundred yards.

LIST OF KILLED.

The only names of dead now obtainable are:

WILLIAM VANCE, station agent, buried in the ruins of the depot.

CHARLEY MURRAY, an old man, who worked for the railroad; killed by a freight car being blown over on him.

FRANK WILSON (or Nelson), railroad man, who lived near the depot; killed in the ruins of his own house.

There were eight persons in the Wilson or Nelson house, and the trainmen think they were all killed.

Later.—Telegram just received says forty to fifty people were killed at Phrophetstown. The news has been verified by a short message.

IT WAS ONCE TECUMSEH'S HEADQUARTERS.

Prophetstown is one of the most historic villages in Illinois, situated on Rock river, in Whitesides county, about a score of miles from where it empties into the Mississippi river. It has been in existence as an Indian village as far back as the traditions of the northwest extend. During the dark and bloody days when Whitesides, for whom the county in which Prophetstown is located, is named, was fighting Black Hawk and his savages, Prophetstown was a small Indian village, and it is related that the soldiers burned the wigwams and looted the village, though the Indians who had occupied it had hitherto been friendly with the whites. The name has an Indian origin, Prophet, as the great Tecumseh was known, having made the village his headquarters. When the country, finally at peace, began to develop under the whites, Prophetstown became a town of considerable importance but has never attained any great population. It now has probably 1,000 inhabitants, but, not being the county seat, has no particular commercial importance.

NOT SO BAD AS FIRST REPORTED.

The reported loss of life at Prophetstown, is unfounded. A dispatch just received by the general superintendent of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy railroad, from the railroad agent at Prophetstown is as follows;

"A cyclone struck Prophetstown at 7 o'clock last evening, moving the depot from its foundation, blowing off half the roof and breaking the windows. The elevator was blown down, and rests on a side track. A string of fourteen cars was blown out from a siding onto the main track, about three miles from here, with breaks set. Quite a number of buildings were blown down in the village, and a number of persons hurt. With the exception of one stock train delayed, the others are on time.'

Killed by Lightning.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., April 8.—Mrs. Fred Eberlin, of Frazer, was instantly killed by lightning which accompanied a cycone which passed over this county this morning.

The Pistol Was Loaded.

GREENVILLE, S. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Walter King, the little nine-year-old son of John King, of Piedmont, S. C., and his little sister, started to enter the store of J. H. Simpson at that place about 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon. As the little fellow stepped on the threshold, a pistol Mr. Simpson was showing to a customer in some way was discharged, the bullet entering little Walter's temple, killing him instantly. Mr. Simpson did not realize the awful effect of the discharge until the little girl screamed and cried to him that he had killed her brother. As soon as he did so he became almost frantic with grief, and it was feared by his friends that he would do himself one great injury.

Killed by a Falling Derrick.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8.—Near West Point, a few miles out on the Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern road, today, a derrick in use in repairing a trestle fell and killed four men. The rope which held the derrick in place broke while a large beam was being lifted into place, and the derrick came down, carrying over its supporting beams and sweeping the men from the trestle. They were precipitated one hundred and twenty-five feet into the gulch below. Foreman Howard and several others were fatally hurt.

Death of a Congressman's Son.

WILMINGTON, N. C., April 8.—[Special.]—News reached here tonight of the accidental killing of the son of Congressman William Henry Harrison Cowles, who represents the eighth congressional district of this state in congress. Young Cowles was attending the Horner college, at Oxford, in this state, and today, while carelessly handling a revolver, it was accidentally discharged, killing him almost instantly.

Maurice Stearns Dies of His Wounds.

CHICAGO, April 8.—M. C. Stearns, who, on Saturday last, in a fit of mental depression caused by illness, fired four bullets into his own body, died today. He helped organize the board of trade in 1848. He leaves property, chiefly real estate, valued at $3,000,000.

ARCHER'S LITTLE DEAL.

The Legislature Committee Getting at the Bottom of the Facts.

BALTIMORE, April 8.—The Herald of Wednesday will say: It is expected that some interesting facts will be developed in connection with the Archer defalcation when the legislature committee, appointed to investigate State Treasurer Archer's accounts and methods of business, meets again on Thursday. It is known that the bulk of Archer's transactions in this city was hypothecating state sinking fund. Securities were with the Franklin Bank and this institution was figured in the deal, which more than all others, so far established, enabled the authorities to formulate charges of misappropriations of funds against the keeper of the state's exchequer."

The "deal" referred to by the Herald is the sale, through a brokerage firm, of state securities, the proceeds of which were paid to Archer by a check on the Franklin, bank, drawn to Archer's order as state treasurer, but the funds were not all placed to the credit of the state.

The Sun's Belair special says: At a consultation of Archer's friends today, it was decided that it is inexpedient for him to make a statement. This is considered to mean that the idea of his making a statement at any time has been entirely abandoned.

AONTHER SILVER BILL.

Republican Senators Trying to Frame One that Will Pass.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—Pursuant to the opinion expressed at a conference of republican senators Saturday night, a committee of thirteen republican senators met today and entered upon the work of preparing a silver bill, if possible, that shall command the support of the majority in the senate. The bill, which was reported by Mr. Jones, from the finance committee as a substitute for the Windom bill as originally introduced had practically the unanimous indorsement of the committee at that time. Prominent representatives of those senators, known as the silver men, stated that the bill would receive their support as the best measure they could obtain at this session. But since then there has been a disposition to insist upon more than $4,500,000 monthly coinage, They intend to insist upon a measure which shall deal with silver with the utmost liberality consistent with the absolute certainty of enactment into law. The committte of thirteen are charged with the duty of reconciling the demand with views of those members of the majority who do not favor free coinage. At today's meeting no visible progress was made, the time being largely spent in a comparison of the provisions of the several measures on the silver question now pending before congress.

THE STRIKES IN CHICAGO.

The Carpenters Still Out, But the Plumbers Have Compromised.

CHICAGO, April 8.—The carpenters' strike has narrowed down to the question of recognition or non-recognition of the union. The bosses are willing to concede eight hours a day, and a compromise upon rates could easily be reached, but the bosses absolutely refuse to recognize the union, and the men refuse to treat upon any basis except a recognition of the union.

A settlement of the plumbers' strike has been reached by arbitration. The agreement is to run for two years, from February 1st last. Journeymen are to receive $3.00 per day, instead of $3.75, for which they struck, and juniors are to get twenty-five cents per day advance, except in shops where it is customary to grant them an annual advance in wages. The men are well satisfied with the terms reached, and work will be resumed tomorrow.

A FAVORABLE REPORT

To be Made on the Bill to Amend the Internal Revenue Laws.

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The house judiciary committee has ordered a favorable report to be made upon Henderson's bill to amend the internal revenue laws. The bill removes the minimum penalties now provided by law for the punishment of offenders against the revenue laws, limits the issue of warrants upon information to those sworn to by collectors, deputies or revenue officers, and to those made upon sworn complaint and personal knowledge, and prohibits the payment of fees unless the prosecution is approved by the United States attorney or conviction results; provides for the return upon warrants before the nearest judicial officer; authorizes circuit courts to appoint commissioners to act upon warrants and admit persons to bail, and finally empowers the commissioner of internal revenue to compromise civil or criminal cases, or reduce and remit fines.

BLOOD IN DURHAM.

A Saturday Night Row Which Resulted Fatally.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Saturday night, at Durham, a crowd of a dozen negro men and women gathered at the house of Martha Woodward, colored, and engaged in drinking whisky and playing cards for money. A dispute arose over fifty cents, in which several took part. Mintus Chandler was put out of the room, and Henry Alston was afterwards put out. Then there was a general struggle, and Alston was heard to cry out, "I'm cut," and seen to stagger from the piazza and fall a few steps from it. The large artery in his thigh was severed, and he died in three minutes. Chandler ran away. He has been captured some distance in the country, Chandler and Alston were anxious for the fight, but it is not known certainly who did the cutting. Chandler, who has a wound on his head, denies it. The jury found that Alston came to his death at the hands of Chandler, and he is now in jail.

The Usual Story From Birmingham.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—Late this afternoon some boys fishing in Village creek, two miles north of the city, discovered evidence of a horrible and mysterious murder. The body of a well dressed young white man was found lying partly in the water. The man's head had been beaten into a shapeless mass with some heavy instrument. The pockets of the dead man were turned inside out and no scraps of paper or anything by which he could be identified was found. The coroner is out of the city on another case, and no official investigation of the case can be made until tomorrow.

Bridgeport's New Enterprises.

BRIDGEPORT, Ala., April 8.—[Special.]—At the directors' meeting of the Bridgeport Land and Improvement company, at Bridgeport, Ala., they have decided to build a seventy-five thousand dollar hotel, waterworks, and electric light plant. These improvements will be commenced as soon as contracts can be made.

They All Escaped.

SPOKANE FALLS, Wash., April 8.—Nineteen prisoners escaped from the county jail here early yesterday morning. While the jailer was making his rounds he was seized, bound and gagged by four of the prisoners, who liberated the remainder by unlocking their cells. A posse is in pursuit.

Helps Business.

CHICAGO, April 8.—A prominent operator who is always on hand in the corn-pits, says that his business has been greatly benefited by the wa[illegible] bucket-shops. His orders used to amo[illegible]out 40,000 bushels a day, but they no[illegible] high as 600,000 bushels. "I see men [illegible]t," he said, "who have not been here [illegible]rs."

TELEGRAPH BREVITIES.

Emperor William attended a dinner given in his honor by Count Herbert Bismarck.

Bond offerings yesterday $9,550; all accepted at 122 for four per cents, and 103½ for four and a half s.

Winners at Washington race—first races, Helen Wallace; second race, Vivid; third race, Prather; fourth race, Pelham; fifth race, Shotover.

LOST THEIR LIVES.

Mr. Burrell Ragsdale and His Mother Meet a Violent Death on the West Point Railroad.

NEWNAN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—A frightful accident occurred last night on the Atlanta and West Point road, about half a mile this side of Powellville, by which Mr. Burrell Ragsdale and his mother, Mrs. Mary Ragsdale, lost their lives. Mr. Ragsdale was employed by the road to keep up the water tanks at Powellville and Fairburn, and in plying between the two points used a railway tricycle, or velocipede. He had become quite expert in managing the machine, and frequently took dangerous risks in trying to make given points in advance of approaching trains. His mother came down on the accommodation train at six o'clock last night, and was met at Powellville by Mr. Ragsdale and a younger son. They made their home with Mr. Jim Cole, who lives one mile below the station, and after the accommodation passed, Mr. Ragsdale put his tricycle on the track, and taking his mother and little brother up on the machine, started home.

RUN DOWN ON THE TRICYCLE.

The construction train was following close behind the accommodation, but he seemed confident that he could cover the distance in safety, and, heedless of the danger incurred, started off down the track. He had hardly gotten out of sight, however, before the construction train came along, and at a point about three-fourths of a mile below the station overtook the tricycle. Owing to the noise made by the rumbling machine, Ragsdale did not hear the train until it had approached within twenty or thirty feet, and as the engine was running backwards without a headlight, the tricycle and its occupants were not seen by the engineer. Ragsdale's little brother saw it in time to leap off, and escaped unhurt.

THE TWO CAUGHT.

His mother also attempted to jump, but did not succeed in clearing the track, and was caught by the moving train and knocked off. Ragsdale did not have time to jump, and he and his machine were struck by the tender and hurled with terrific force against the side of the cut. As soon as the accident was discovered the train was stopped and the crew went back to the scene to ascertain what damage had been done. Ragsdale was found lying by the side of the track, insensible. His mother was found a short distance beyond with her foot crushed, but apparently suffering from no other injury. She seemed more distressed on account of her son than of her own injuries, and made tearful inquiries of the conductor concerning his condition. When assured that he was probably not seriously hurt she seemed much relieved, but almost immediately lapsed into a state of unconsciousness, and in ten minutes she was dead. Ragsdale was carried to the home of Mr. Jim Cole, where he lingered until 1 o'clock this morning, when he, too, died.

MEDICAL AID SENT FOR.

As soon as the accident occurred Dr. L. M. McGee, of Powellville, was summoned to the scene. Upon arriving he saw that he would need assistance in caring for the wounded, and immediately dispatched the construction train to Newnan for Drs. T. B. Davis and G. W. Peddy, who went up about eight o'clock on a hand-car. Ragsdale was unconscious up to the hour of his death. The construction train was in charge of Engineer Corbett and Conductor Tobe Cook, by whom the accident is deeply deplored. Ragsdale was about twenty-two years of age and unmarried. His mother was about forty-five. The accident is attributed more to the recklessness of the unfortunate young man than to any carelessness on the part of the train men, as he had been warned not to undertake the trip.

NO CLUE TO HOFFE.

A Letter Alleged to Have Been Written by Him.

NEWNAN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Charles Hoffee, the bigamist, is yet at large, and no information has been received that can aid in locating his whereabouts. Two suspicious characters were seen at Baming and Whitesburg yesterday, though if Hoffee was one of them he must have been disguised, as the descriptions furnished do not correspond with Hoffee's appearance.

Yesterday Sheriff Carmical received the following message on a postal card:

In the woods on the Chattahoochee river, Monday morning.—Dear Colonel: I am now with Rube Burrow, and wish you well. I've seen your notice in THE CONSTITUTION. Be heeled when you meet me, for I am a swamp angel. Yours,

CHARLES HOFFEE.

The postal was mailed on the Savannah, Griffin and North Alabama train, and is regarded as a fake.

KILLING THE DOGS.

Some One Tired of Their Midnight Howling Putting an End to Them.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The scavenger wagon has been kept busy since Sunday afternoon. Some person, or persons, with a disposition too mean to be contemplated has put poison all over the city, and as a result seventy-five dogs have passed in their checks and taken the last "bark" in search of happier fields. Tiny Terriers, large mastiffs, and fine bird dogs alike have suffered this fate. It is the belief of some that a systematic plan has been arranged to kill all dogs for the purpose of pilfering. At all events the price of bologna is still high and firm.

The Victim is Dead.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Richard Williams, colored, died at the St. Joseph Infirmary this morning, from the effects of a wound inflicted by Andrew Gibbs. Both men were deck hands on the steamer Ethel. Last Friday Williams and Gibbs quarrelled. They were on the shore at the time at Peter's Landing, eighty-five miles above Savannah, and were loading wood on the boat. Gibbs picked up an ax and Williams a spade. As Gibbs came up threatingly Williams cut at him with the spade, and missed him. Gibbs struck at Williams's head, and cut it open. The officers did not secure Gibbs, and when the steamer reached Cohen's Bluff he walked off and escaped. Williams was treated there and brought back to Savannah.

Negroes Giving Recommendations.

HARMONY GROVE, Ga., April 8.—[Special.] We have just learned, upon undoubted authority, that George Pittman, colored, the republican boss in this county, went to Atlanta today for the purpose of indorsing certain white men in this county for the position of census enumerators. We also learn that a certain buck nigger of this town will be an applicant for the position of enumerator of Harrisburgh district in this county, and that George Pittman, colored, will indorse his application, thereby making it more than probable that a big, black buck nigger will be forced upon the good people of Harrisbugh district as census enumerator.

The City Election in LaGrange.

LAGRANGE, April 8.—[Special.]—The city election takes place May 1st. The registration books were opened yesterday, and will close on the 25th inst. Mayor E. D. Pitman will be a candidate for re-election, and Dr. J. F. Park will also be a candidate. Considerable interest is being taken in the outcome of the election. Friends of both gentlemen feel confident of the success of their favorites.

Baseball in Dallas.

DALLAS, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The Dallas baseball club was organized last Saturday. The club is in the field, and will cross bats with any other club. The Dallas club will make a fine record.

THE AUGUSTA PRESBYTERIANS.

They Close their Session in Milledgeville Yesterday.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The last day's session of the Augusta presbytery was opened this morning, with devotional services, after which they went into regular business session. On motion, the presbytery appropriated $20 to each of the commissioners to defray their expenses to the convention at Asheville. The Presbyterian convention was called to meet in Augusta on the second Sabbath in May, for the purpose of considering the matter of synodical evangelization on increasing the home mission work. The amended report of the committee on directory for worship was adopted.

THE TITHE SYSTEM.

The committee on tithes reported that while the tithe laid was not binding now, yet they thought that a Christian living in an age of superior light, should not give less than did the Jews under the old dispensation.

Arrangements were made for the installation of the new preachers of the presbytery as follows:

Rev. Dr. Plunkett, at First Presbyterian church of Augusta, on the second Sunday in May.

Rev. D. McQueen will preach the sermon and Rev. T. M. Lowry will preside, and propound the constitutional question and charge the people.

Rev. Mr. Britt will be installed at Sparta on the third Sunday in May.

Rev. Dr. Plunkett to preside and charge the people, and Rev. D. McQueen to preach the sermon and charge the pastor.

COMMITTEE MATTERS.

Rev. D. McQueen resigned his position as chairman of the publication committee, and Rev. Britt was elected to that position.

The report of the Sabbath school committee, advising renewed efforts in that department, was adopted. Dr. Plunkett was added to the committee on domestic missions, by a rising vote.

The presbytery returned thanks to the people of Milledgeville for their unbounded hospitality, to the churches of the city for their co-operation in the religious services, and to the newspapers that have given reports of their proceedings. It then adjourned to meet in Sharon, as was published today.

THE CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

The Annual State Conclave in Session in Albany.

ALBANY, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The state conclave of the Catholic Knights of America convened here today. They are the guests of Albany branch, No. 458, and are being royally entertained. This morning their session was held at the parlors of the Artesian house. This afternoon they were driven to see the beauties of Blue spring and Albany. Tonight they will be entertained at a sumptuous wine banquet, the guests of President John Mock, at his elegant San Souci. The conclave comprises a splendid body of gentlemen, all the principalities of the state being represented.

The Baptist Revival.

NEWNAN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The revival meeting which closed at the Baptist church last Sunday night, was the most successful ever held in this city. There were fifty-one additions to the membership, forty-seven by profession of faith, and four by letter. The meeting lasted three weeks, during which time, the beloved pastor, Dr. J. H. Hall, was assisted by Dr. Haden, of Rome, and Rev. T. C. Carleton, of Decatur. It was a glorious revival, and marks a gracious event in the history of the Newnan Baptist church.

BOB HILL FOUND GUILTY

And Sentenced to be Hung on the Ninth of May.

WARRENTOWN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Bob Hill, the negro burglar, that murdered Mr. A. S. Rogers, of Camak, on February 5th, was brought here from Macon last night, where he was carried for safe keeping. He was tried, found guilty and sentenced to be hanged on the 9th day of May next. The jury, after being out half an hour, returned with a verdict of murder in the first degree. He was carried back to Macon on the evening train, where he will remain until the day of his execution.

THE MCGREGOR CASE.

Owing to the fact that a large number of the grand venire of court being related to either one side or the other in the Cody-McGregor case, it has taken all day to get the grand jury made up for that case. It is thought that a true bill will be found in the morning, and the case will be tried at once.

A Fly in the Lock.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—There seems to be a fly in the lock somewhere in the McGregor case. Though two days have past, no true bill has yet been found by the grand jury, and there are many who believe there will be none. It is rumored that the grand jury stands nine for no bill, and nine for finding the true bill. They have taken no action in the case yet, and made no public announcement in the court.

THE SAD DEATH OF CAPT. BROOKS.

A Sketch of His Career as a Citizen—The Funeral to Take Place Today.

GRIFFIN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—In the death of Captain F. J. Brooks, which resulted from injuries received on yesterday afternoon, Griffin and Spalding county are called on to mourn the death of a valued citizen.

Having been a citizen and successful merchant here for a number of years, he has made many warm friends who are sad at his untimely end. He was called to fill the office of county commissioner two years ago, made vacant by the death of Colonel S. W. Maugham, which position he held at the time of his death, being chairman of the board. He enjoyed the full confidence of the people and had he lived would no doubt been his own successor.

Besides his host of friends, Captain Brooks leaves a wife, four sons and three daughters to mourn his death. The burial will take place tomorrow at 10 o'clock from his late residence on Hill street. Funeral by Rev. J. A. Perdue, pastor of the Christian church, of which he was a constant member.

Work on the Middle Georgia.

COVINGTON, Ga., April 8.—A considerable force of hands with their mules, wagons, etc., have just arrived here and will begin work on the Middle Geogria and Atlantic railroad tomorrow. The surveying party have made a preliminary survey from here to Cedar Shoals, on Yellow river, which is about three miles west of this place, and it is thought that that route will be adopted in extending the road to Atlanta. It is also thought that a branch road will be built from Cedar Shoals to connect with the Georgia Midland at McDonough if the lattter road is not extended to this place.

Iecreasing Land Values in Augusta.

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Several lots on the Monte Sans tract, owned by the Summerville Land company, were sold today at five hundred dollars a lot, five lots to the acre. A few years ago this tract was sold for a little more than one dollar an acre; later for twenty-five dollars; then for one hundred; next for two hundred, and today's sales at the rate of twenty-five hundred an acre. Within six months this figure will be doubled.

A Merchants' Club in Athens.

ATHENS, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The merchants of Athen are to organize a club. Mr. Julius Cohen is the leading spirit in the affair, and is highly enthusiastic over the project. It will be a great benefit to the city and to the merchants.

For Want of Flowers.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—It has been decided to postpone the bazar of the Floral and Art association until the week commencing May 6th. This is done owing to the scarcity of flowers, and in the interest of that feature of the affair.

Wasting away, growing thinner every day. Poor child. You need Dr. Bull's Worm Destroyers and you would soon grow fat and hearty. Mamma, get her some.

THE TRIAL OF HOLMES,

CHARGED WITH THE KILLING OF DE FOREST ALGOOD,

To be Taken Up on the 15th of April—A Strong Array of Counsel on Both Sides—General Roman News.

ROME, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Judge Maddox of the supreme court of this county has set the 15th of April for the trial of Dr. J. B. S. Holmes for killing DeForrest Allgood. This was done on the request of Dr. Holmes through his counsel, Judge Branham. Alexander & Wingler representing the state expressed the intention to be ready if possible, having to arrange with associate counsel, Judge Hammond, of Atlanta. The array of counsel for the defense is large and includes many of the legal lights of our city. The trial will attract great attention. Judge Maddox has recovered from his recent illness and has resumed his seat on the bench which Judge Gober, of Marietta filled for him during the March term.

THE NEW COUNCIL.

The new city council made few changes in the city officials, the following new officers being elected: W. J. Nunnally, city attorney; and Dr. C. S. Harris, city physician.

After the election of officers Mayor Walton appointed the following as chairmen of standing committees:

Finance, M. M. Pepper; waterworks, J. D. Moore; streets, J. J. Seay; police, S. S. King; gas lights, J. W. Mitchell; fire, S. M. Knox; cemetery, J. J. Printup; public building, M. C. Mathis; health, J. R. Cantrell; relief, S. S. King; ordinances, J. J. Printup; printing J. W. Mitchell; public schools, Dallas Turner.

The city clerk's report shows the total receipts for the year to be $72,774.40, and the expenditures $43,227.45, to which is to be added the amount paid for schools $8,112.32, and for interest on the bonded debt and to sinking fund. The police committee reports the collection of $7,005.77 from fines; number of arrests 1,065 of which 185 were dismissed.

THE CASE THROWN OUT.

In the case of Hardy vs. Williamson for damages for defamation of character, the case was thrown out of court on a demurrer. This was a suit of an engineer employed by the Chattahoachee Brick company during the construction of the Rome and Carrollton railroad. J. D. Williamson stated in a card in the Tribune that there appeared to be collusion between some of the engineers and the contractors. The decision was that this did not necessarily refer to Hardy and was too indefinite.

THE ELECTION OF WARDENS.

The election of wardens and vestrymen for St. Peter's Episcopal church was held on Monday. The result was as follows: H. S. Lansdell, senior warden; E. S. Taylor, junior warden. Vestrymen—C. I. Graves, A. Cumming, J. E. Veal, G. F. Cleidsey, E. G. Warner, J. S. Veal, William Wright. There was much interest and a spirited contest. Messrs. Taylor and Warner have resigned since the election. The delegates to the state convention are William Wright, H. S. Lansdell and A. Cumming. The first of March this church paid off the mortgage of $1,000 on their rectory, which debt was incurred to make a payment on their lot for the new church.

A NOVEL REAL ESTATE SALE

To Be Inaugurated by Mr. Henry Horne at Macon.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—THE CONSTITUTION had a talk today with Mr. Henry Horne, and, as usual, he was chuck full of interesting real estate matters. Mr. Horne is constantly devising some plan to benefit Macon, and he never fails to accomplish his purpose. Among some of his latest schemes is one that will mean a big thing for the city if perfected, and it is likely to be. "I propose," said Mr. Horne, "putting in operation during May a grand real estate scheme. We have been swapping dollars here among ourselves long enough, and in certain localities the edges have been worn off. Now I propose a combination sale of all the improved business property in the city, to take place, say May 15th. I shall invite the following owners to put their property in for sale, each to share according to the values realized, after deducting the expense of the sale:

The Catholic church property, on Fourth and Walnut; the E. Wolff property, on Fourth and Mulberry; the W. A. Huff Kimball house property, on Fourth and Cherry; the Baer, Solomon, Weichselbaum and Fleetwood lots, on Cherry street; also the Cherry street property of W. L. Ellis and Mrs. James Mercer Green, together with three lots on the old jail property owned by Jaques, Solomon and Horne, and the acre tract on Poplar street in the rear of the above lots. I will spend one thousand dollars in newspaper and poster advertising throughout the south, and I am confident that every foot offered at this sale will bring far above the present values and large crowds will be attracted here, causing numerous sales of other properties to be made."

If Mr. Horne's health permits and the owner of the property above named will join in the sale, surprising resnlts are sure to follow. The advertisement thus given the city will also be of immense benefit, and unquestionably the best she has ever had.

A RECEPTION WILL BE TENDERED

The Pan-American Delegates on Their Visit to Macon.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The Pan-American delegates, who will visit Macon this month, will be warmly received here. Major J. F. Hanson will tender them a brilliant reception and the mayor and council will take steps to give the delegates an enthusiastic reception. The board of trade will also see to it that Macon does herself credit on this occasion and the visitors will be impressed with Macon's hospitality and prosperity. They will reach here at 9 a. m. of the 25th and will remain until 12 o'clock at night.

Church Officers Elected.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The annual election of officers for Christ church occurred last night. The officers elected for the ensuing year are as follows:

John G. Deitz, sentor warden; George R. Barker, junior warden; T. O. Chestuly, H. G. Cutler, Robert Munford, William A. Poe, vestrymen.

The election of delegates to the diocesan convention, to be held at Milledgeville next month, was then taken by the vestrymen and the following gentlemen were elected:

H. G. Cutler, Robert Munford, William A. Poe. Alternates: D. M. Gugel, Buford M. Davis, William T. Lang.

Found Dead in Bed.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Mr. Robert H. Wright, a well-known planter of this county, was found dead in bed this morning at his home about nine miles from the city on the Thomaston road. Mr. Wright's death is supposed to have been caused from heart disease. He was well-known and liked by a large number of people here and was a most estimable gentleman. Mr. Homer Wright, at Burden, Smith & Ellis's is his son, and he is a brother of Mr. George Wright, also of this city.

General Gossip.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The estate of the late Mrs. Ella Holt Park was appraised yesterday by Messrs. N. M. Hodgkins, E. H. Link, and D. Q. Abbott, and was found to be worth over $100,000 in sound and song securities. Captain R. E. Park, the husband of the deceased and two children survive Mrs. Park. She was the daughter of Mrs. Justice L. Q. C. Lamar.

Charlie S. Johnson, the popular and efficient traveling representative of THE CONSTITUTION, was in town today, and did a large business for his paper. The circulation of THE CONSTITUTION is greatly increasing in Macon.

The first german of the Easter season was given tonight by the German club at the armory of the Macon Volunteers. It was largely attended, and was a highly successful affair.

Captain R. E. Park, of Macon, is making a great success raising Shetland ponies at his farm at Holton. He ships them to all points of the United States. Captain Park can aptly be called a diversified farmer.

Judge Miller, of the Macon circuit, is holding court in the Blue Ridge circuit for Judge Gober, and Judge Gober is presiding for Judge Miller at Perry.

The Progress club is one of the largest and most successful social organizations in the city. It has a large membership, and occupies handsome apartments in the Dannenberg building. The following officers were elected last night: J. H. Hertz was re-elected president for the fifth time; Joe Waxalbaum, vice-president; E. A. Waxelbaum, secretary and treasurer; Morris, Harris, J. Seisel, I. Homer and J. Haas, directors for two years; L. J. Lilienthal, Henry Payser, A. Lesser and William Wolff, directors for one year.

Mr. Henry Horne made application to city council tonight for the grant of ten acres of land on which to erect a manufacturing plant to cost $100,000.

Mr. C. S. Johnson has purchased a lot on College street next to Mr. H. M. Waltham and will erect a handsome brick residence.

The general committees of the board of public education, recently appointed by President R. A. Nisbet to visit the different schools of the city and county, have about completed their visitations. They find the schools in splendid condition, well managed and largely attended. It is generally conceded that Bibb county has one of the best public school systems in the state, due to the very able and popular management of Superintendent B. M. Zettler and his faithful and efficient atsistant, D. Q. Abbott. The teaching is very thorough and complete.

The next entertainment at the Academy of Music will commence on the 21st, and will play a week. It will appear here under the auspices of Mr. Jake Tennenbaum.

Hon. R. W. Patterson and wife, Mr. I. L. Harris and wife went to Atlanta tonight to attend the marriage of their sister, Miss Gertrude Snider.

Mr. Henry Horne has perfected arrangements for the purchase of a large tract of suburban property, which will be developed by the expenditure of $250,000.

A committee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen of this city has been appointed to arrange for a picnic at Beech Haven. This is the second annual picnic of the order and it will take place on the 24th of May.

Mrs. F. D. Wimberly and Miss Hallie Wimberly, of Twiggs county, are guests of the Hotel Lanier. Miss Wimberly is one of the noted beauties of central Georgia.

Miss Lizzie Leonard, of Talbotton, is a guest of the Hotel Lanier.

Perhaps some readers of THE CONSTITUTION can give the information asked for in the following letter received by a Maconite today:

Dear Sir: Am seeking information in regard to prices of butter during the summer and winter months, with a view to opening up a wholesale and retail butter store. Am extensively engaged in the manufacture of fine butter and cheese, and am seeking a new outlet for the goods. Any information you can give me will be duly appreciated. Yours respectfully,

D. FRANK ELLIS.

THE BIG MAIN IN SAVANNAH

In Which Augusta Sportsmen Clean Out the Forest City.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Augusta sports are painting the town red tonight. They came to town Saturday night with two dozen game cocks, and the three days' main which began Sunday ended this afternoon in a complete victory for the Augustans, who fought Savannah and Charleston chickens. Sunday afternoon the Savannah chickens whipped, and the home sports won $3,000. Yesterday the Augusta birds whipped, and won it all back. This afternoon the Augusta birds won five straight battles, and broke our sports, who dropped $6,000. One sport lost $2,000, another $600 and dozens lost $50 to $100. The Augustas will go to Atlanta for a main there. If the money can be raised here, there will be a big main during Merchants' week, but the boys have not a dollar tonight.

HELD FOR IDENTIFICATION.

A Man Held in Brunswick on Suspicion as a Savannah Criminal.

SAVANNAH, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—This morning City Detective Si Basch received a telegram from Brunswick, stating that a negro answering to the description of Albert Morea, of this city, had been arrested there and would be held until the arrival of himself or some other officer. Morea is wanted for murder. He, it will be remembered, is the negro who cut the throat of his wife, who was engaged as a servant by Captain Jordan F. Brooks. Since then it has been reported several times that he had been seen near the city. Mr. Waring Russell stated this morning that only last week he had good information that the murderer had been about his place, near Belmont. For this reason he was inclined to doubt that the negro arrested was Morea. Detective Basch left for Brunswick this eveuing.

For the Benefit of the Athens Rifles.

ATHENS, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The tombola given for the benefit of the Clarke Rifles is a great success. For several weeks the ladies of the city have been working earnestly and without ceasing for the success of the affair, and their efforts have surely been rewarded. The tombola opened today at 2 o'clock, and a large crowd was present. The interior of the armory was a scene of beauty in its many decorations and art arrangements. The different booths were presided over by various ladies of our city, and numbers of friends and admirers thronged constantly around. The tombola will continue for three nights, and it is safe to say that a large sum will be realized. The Rifles are coming to the front rapidly under the command of Captain G. H. Yancy, and are to be numbered among the finest companies in the state.

The Lights Knocked Out.

LAGRANGE, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The electric lights were knocked out one night last week by a piece of tin being blown across the wires. It changed the current and caused some damage to the apparatus. Everything has been properly adjusted and now works satisfactorily. The city council will today close a contract for lighting the streets.

DEATHS IN GEORGIA:

CARNESVILLE, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—H. H. Hays, the coroner of this county, who lived several miles north of town, is dead. He was highly respected, and had scores of friends all over this section. He had been coroner of Franklin county for a number of years, and had discharged the duties of the office to the entire satisfaction of the people generally.

Andy McKie, one of Banks county's oldest citizens, died at his home twelve miles west of this place. He was a substantial farmer, and had raised a large family, and had many friends and relatives who mourn his loss.

MARIETTA, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Rev. George S. Tumlin is conducting a very interesting series of meetings at the Baptist church here, and from the interest our people are taking in the services much good, no doubt will be accomplished.

You Need It Now

There is nothing of greater importance to you than your health. At this season nearly every one is feeling more or less weak, tired and miserable, a condition naturally following the unhealthful winter, the epidemic of "the grip," pneumonia, typhoid fever, etc. This should be overcome at once, as it indicates a low health-tone and special susceptibility to disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the ideal Spring Medicine and Blood purifier. It is peculiarly adapted to thoroughly purify and renovate the blood, overcome that tired feeling, and build up the whole system. If you have not yet taken your spring medicine, do not delay longer, but take Hood's Sarsaparilla Now.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

"I have used Hood's Sarsaparilla for several years, and I consider it to be one of the best of tonics, and blood purifiers. As a medicine for use in the spring to tone up the entire system, it is unexcelled. I take pleasure in recommending it as an excellent remedy." G. A. OTTMANN, Rector Church of the Good Shepherd, Yorkville, South Carolina.

The chief reason for the marvelous success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is Merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has made it the medicine first in the confidence of our countrymen, and given to Hood's Sarsaparilla a popularity and sale greater than that of any other blood purifier.

The Spring Medicine

"Hood's Sarsaparilla has fine sales in this county. I use this medicine in my practice when and wherever an alternative is needed, and recommend it in preference to any other, as I consider it far superior." W. K. GRAYSON, M. D., Youngsport, Bell County, Texas.

The Spring Medicine

"I can hardly estimate the benefit received from using Hood's Sarsaparilla. Last summer I was prostrated for nearly three months, from poor circulation of the blood, as I thought. This spring the same symptoms returned, and I concluded to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I have not lost one day from my work, and feel like a different person." R. J. RILEY, Business Manager Gazette, St. Clairsville, Ohio.

GEORGIA RAILROADS.

COLONEL MACHEN IS CREDITED WITH GOOD WORK FOR HIS ROAD.

The South-Bound and an Opposition Charleston Line.—The Millen and Southern. Other Railroad News.

Colonel Machen is credited with some clever hard work on his Middle Georgia and Atlantic road.

Some time ago surveying corps were at work in Laurens, Twiggs and Johnson counties. At the time it was given out that the engineers were locating lines for Machen's latest road—the Middle Georgia and Atlantic. It is now known that the engineers were locating a line between Macon and a point on the Atlanta line, somewhere near Swainsboro. While attention was being attracted to the line from Covington to Eatonton, Colonel Machen was putting in another clincher on the Central, an almost air-line between Macon and Savannah.

The scheme, as far as can be learned, is to use the Georgia Southern terminal facilities at Macon, the new line connecting at Soffkee with the Macon and Birmingham and Georgia Southern. In this way all passenger traffic would come into Macon, while through freight, such as pig iron and coal, would go directly through to Savannah, the cars being handled in the joint yards at Soffkee.

The charter for the Middle Georgia and Atlantic permits the building of railroads in any part of the state, and it is under that clause, it is thought, Colonel Machen has been working on the Macon road to Savannah. From Soffkee the Macon and Savannah will be built in an almost air line to a point on the Middle Georgia and Atlantic, about ninety miles from Savannah. That would leave only sixty-two miles of road to be built.

"Work," said Colonel Machen, a day or two since, "commences at once on the Savannah end. Hacks will be run from the Eatonton end of the line between Machen and Eatonton to the town, a distance of two and a half miles, until we build into it. We are now besieged to run a passenger coach on our train between Machen and Eatonton. Milledgeville wants the road, and wants it badly. We are going right ahead."

The Milledgeville paper says of Colonel Machen's visit there last week: "He said the first thing to be considered was whether it was possible to get the right of way from Eatonton here; said that the charter of the Gordon and Eatonton railroad protected it from a parallel road within ten miles. If that was true, he said that the road could not be brought here without the consent of the Central. He said further, that in his opinion, the only possible plan was to do our best to persuade the Central authorities that it will be to their interest to lease the branch from Milledgeville fo Eatonton to his new road for the guarantee which they now have, namely, eight per cent.

To make a long story short, Colonel Machen about convinced the committee that the deflection of the road to be here was impossible by any other means. But he equally convinced them that if we could succeed in that there were no other hindrances."

A committee of twenty-five prominent citizens of Milledgeville were appointed to go to Savannah and confer with General Alexander about the lease of the Central branch road.

What Is Said in Macon.

MACON, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Much has been written and said lately about the building of a railroad from Macon to Savannah that was mythical. One of the visionary schemes was that the East Tennessee railway might take a hand in constructing the proposed Macon and Dublin road to Dublin, and from that point build the Savannah, Dublin and Western to Savannah.

The Macon Construction company has successfully constructed the Georgia Southern and Florida railroad from Macon to Palatka, a distance of 285 miles. Ever since the Macon Construction company commenced the agitation of building the Macon and Birmingham road, there has been talk of the company constructing a road from Macon to Savannah, and thus form a continuous air-line from the sea to the coal and iron fields of Alabama, and on to the grainaries and meat houses of the west. Kansas City was the objective point. Macon would be directly on the line of the great highway from the west to the sea coast. The construction company was assured that it could obtain all the northern capital desired to build the line from Birmingham to Macon and on to Savannah, but before taking any steps towards building the Macon and Savannah link, it was desired to get the Macon and Birmingham road under good headway. Now that the work at tracklaying on the Macon and Birmingham is progressing rapidly, attention is directed to the air line from Macon to Savannah. The first decisive step was taken today.

Messrs. W. B. Sparks, president; J. Lane, general manager; G. W. Gustin, attorney, all of the Macon Construction company, have formed a company under the name of "The Macon and Atlantic Railway company," for the purpose of laying out, constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad from the city of Macon, or some point in Bibb county, to the city of Savannah, with a branch thereof to a point on the Savannah river in Effingham county, though the counties of Bibb, Twiggs, Pulaski, Wilkinson, Laurens, Johnson, Emanuel, Montgomery, Tattnall, Bulloch, Bryan, Effingham and Chatham, or such of said counties as may be selected for the location of said railroad. A notice embodying the above will be published immediately in each of said counties as recommended by law and within thirty days after said publication application will be made to the governor and secretary of state for a certificate of incorporation.

It is evident that the sudden action displayed by the Macon Construction company in getting to work on their Savannah road, was caused by the movements of Colonel Machen, of the Middle Georgia and Atlantic.

Superintendent McEvoy and Chief Engineer Roberts, of the later company, left Macon for Savannah tonight with a corps of engineers to commence active operations tomorrow morning in Savannah. They will push forward in this direction as fast as possible. Colonel Machen is now in the north, and all arrangements for building the line have been completed. It looks as if Machen's "dazzling impudence" was about to result in something serious.

Millen and Southern.

This company has organized with the following board of directors: L. R. Millen, of New York, L. Johnson, of Waycross; W. B. Stillwell, of Savannah, and J. W. Preston, of Effingham county.

After the meeting of the stockholders had adjourned the directrs met and elected the following officers:

President—L. R. Millen.

Vice-President—W. B. Stillwell.

General Manager and Treasurer—J. W. Preston.

Secretary—W. F. Baker.

Thirty miles of the road are now being operated from Rogers to Stillmore, and the rest of the road is under contract, as also the deflection of the main road, nine miles of which is to be taken up and laid to Millen, making the latter point the junction with the Central and not Rogers, as the present terminus.

The Millen and Southern will be fifty miles in length, running from Millen on the Central railroad to Sterling.

The South Bound.

The Savannah Construction company, to build the South Bound railroad from Columbia, S. C., to Savannah, was organized in Savannah with the following directors.

J. H. Parker, Frank S. Pambleton, B. Cohn, Charles Watkins, H. Myres, M. Brown, H. M. Comer, John Flanery, J. H. Estill, E. A. Wiell, W. B. Stillwell and F. P. Stuff. J. H. Parker is president of the New York cotton exchange, and all the directors are men of wealth and strong influence. Work on the new road is to begin soon. The capital stock of the company is half a million dollars.

Charleston is moving to secure an opposition line, or one at least to keep part of their territory that the South Bound naturally expects to give Savannah.

According to the News and Courier there is a movement on foot to extend the line of the Blackville, Alstin and Newberry railroad, and open up through it a direct connection between Charleston and the northwestern part of the state.

A very experienced cotton exporter of Charleston said that for a certainty the South Bound road would be built from Columbia to Savannah, and that the other line from Bennetsville, Darlington, etc., via. the Eutawville railroad is also virtually heading for Savannah. The proposed line, however, from Charleston to Greenville, or at least to Ninety-six, would intercept and tap all cross systems and give ample facilities and encouragements for a diversion of their traffic to Charleston, and prevent Savannah from reaping the benefit it expects from the South Bound and other new roads reaching into South Carolina.

The Baptist Convention.

The Georgia Pacific has arranged to give the delegates to the Southern Baptist convention the fastest long-distance schedule ever made in the south. The train will consist of six sleepers, baggage car, coach and reclining chair car, and runs solid nine hundred miles from Atlanta to Fort Worth. It has been christened the True Baptist train. It leaves Atlanta at 1:10 p. m. on the afternoon of May 6th, reaches Birmingham for supper at 7:20 p. m., Vicksburg at 3:30 a. m., Shreveport at 11:30 a. m., Dallas at 6:15 p. m., and Fort Worth at 7:30 p. m. That's nine hundred miles in thirty hours—eat dinner one day in Atlanta and supper in Fort Worth the next day.

Mr. J. R. Taylor, general manager of the Rome and Decatur railroad, was in the city yesterdry on business connected with his line.

It is stated definitely that the morning train on the West Point will be run Sundays, beginning this week or next. Mr. Tyler, general manager, is out of the city now, and the order is expected as soon as he returns.

SUIT AGAINST SUBSCRIBERS.

The Atlanta and Hawkinsville Subscribers in Court.

FORT VALLEY, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Houston superior court has been in session since yesterday, and among the civil cases before the court is the suits of the Atlanta and Hawkinsville railroad, otherwise the Georgia Improvement company vs. the subscribers to the stock of the Atlanta and Hawkinsville, now the Atlanta and Florida railroad. There are a large number of the most substantial men in this town who are subscribers to the common stock of the first chartered road, defendants in the suit. Rumors were afloat here this evening that the cases had been called, several were on trial, and that the evidence adduced led close observers to say that the verdict would be against the Georgia Improvement company, as it had not carried out the original agreement and contents of the charter. Various sums, at great odds, were offered to the subscribers for their chances at gaining the suit, but the defendants refused in every instance, as they said they were sure to gain the suit, because of non-compliance with the original charter. The defendants are all happy, while those here, which are few only, who are in the Georgia Improvement company, are down in the mouth at their prospects of gaining the suit.

Yesterday there was much talk of the stockholders in Atlanta sending Judge Gober, a north Georgia judge, down here to preside on these cases. Many thought it was a put up job by the stockholders in Atlanta of the Georgia Improvement company, but one day on the bench caused the subscribers to think differently, as his course is without reproach. There is considerable excitement here tonight regarding these cases, and the friends of the Improvement company express a desire to have the track torn up from here to Cluloden, while the defaulting subscribers say let them tear it up. The road is not now, never was, and never will be at its present length any benefit to Fort Valley. Many developments may come forth tomorrow.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Mr. Depew's Denial.

EDITORS CONSTITUTION: The denial of Mr. Chauncey M. Depew, in Monday's CONSTITUTION, was only a half-way refutation of the slanders of the people of the south, accredited to him in the first report. He corrects the base language attributed to him in his reference to our judiciary, but leaves standing his libellous criticisms on our people in regard to their treatment of the negro, and the slowness of the old south to take hold of advanced civilization. The millions invested in churches, educational interests, and charitable institutions throughout the south of today, is a better and higher reflection of the noble and manly instincts of the old south, than would be the praises of a nation of such "corner lot" moralists as Mr. Depew and his kind.

As a citizen of the south, one who is in sympathy with the advancement of the new, and venerates the traditions of the old south of noble aims and chivalrous impulses, I enter my solemn protest against this wholesale misrepresentation and vituperation by the wanton hypocrites who accept our hospitality merely to load themselves with traditional lies, which they hurl at our unoffending heads after they have returned. No delegation of southerners has ever descended so low, after accepting northern courtesies. And they never will. This shows the difference between southern gentility and yankee hate.

Let us show no more courtesies to haters of the Depew stripe. They are constitutional liars, and their cowardly hatred will cause them to descend to any depths. With them the only sacred thing in truth is to ignore it. B. M. BLACKBURN.

Card From Mr. Furlow.

MADISON, Ga., April 7.—Editors Constitution: It was not my intention to misrepresent the state of affairs in regard to the last municipal election, and especially would I refrain from doing the honorable gentlemen who were candidates for the offices of mayor and aldermen of Madison an injury. The special to which Mr. E. W. Butler refers in today's issue of THE CONSTITUTION, did not state that the liquor question was a real live issue, but that it was said to be such. I merely sent the special as an item of news, not wishing to do Mr. Butler or his council an injury at all. My business engagements were such that I could not, for want of time, send an account of the result of the election. Mr. E. W. Butler and his board of aldermen are clever gentlemen, and will doubtless serve the city faithfully.

C. M. FURLOW, JR.,
Correspondent Constitution.

New York's Convict System.

NEW YORK, April 6.—Editors Constitution: I notice in the New York World, of this date, that Mr. Chauncey M. Depew has at last said something about the prison contract system, and that for the first time it is recorded of this gentleman that a question that has been a public one in this state he finds it convenient to condemn in the south, while here in his own state the republican party has continued the system of contract labor in the prison in spite of the vote of the people at the polls that it should be abandoned in the fall of 1883. The question of, shall the contract system be abolished, was submitted, by act of the legislature, to the people, who, in that year, decided by a vote of 132,000 majority, that it should be abolished. The following legislature, (which was republican) did, by an act, abolish the contract system. In 1886 the legislature created a prison labor commission, of which I was a member. We reported, recommending state account as a temporary relief, and asked for more time to experiment, in order to reach a permanent solution of a vexed problem.

The legislature of '87 did not even consider our report but passed a bill doing away with machinery and permitting no work to be done for outside parties. The prison managers at once went to work to make this system odious by keeping the convicts idle and in the following year the legislature passed a bill legalizing the contract system or the piece price plan. All this time the republicans had and have control of the legislature, yet Mr. Depew never uttered a word against the legislature legalizing the contract system, but on the contrary approving it by his silence. There is no difference between the contract system and your system in the south so far as its results are concerned, as I showed in my address to the Knights of Labor in your city in November of 1886, a portion of which was published in your journal—but aim to give those who hire prison labor an advantage over outside labor. The outrage is the more flagrant in the north, because the system is deep-rooted; while with you it is new, and I believe will be soon wiped out. We have in this state waged war against the system for twenty years without the aid of any newspaper or the voice of prominent public men. Those who are familiar with the agitation of such questions know that it is an up-hill fight when no strong men or newspaper don't help. But in spite of this drawback the vote of our people sustains us in our work. Yet we find the party to which Mr. Depew belongs, and that claims to be very anxious to protect American labor, not only passing legislation to degrade it, but has the courage to set aside the will of the people. Mr. Depew, if he wants to take a hand in abolishing contract labor can find lots of work in his own state where 7,000 convicts are working on contracts, nearly as many as there are in the whole south. He also knows that a democratic governor and his party stand ready to help in the work to forever abolish the contract system from the prisons of our state. Yours, GEORGE BLAIR.

MEDICAL.

"Her grace of motion, and of look, the smooth
And swimming majesty of step and tread,
The symmetry of form and feature, set
The soul afloat, even like delicious airs
Of flute and harp."

For her matchless look of grace and motion, this regal beauty was indebted to perfect health, restored by the use of that unequaled, invigorating tonic and nervine, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which set in healthy action every function and gave purity and richness to the blood. For delicate, feeble, nervous women, it is an inestimable boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic. It is invaluable in subduing nervous excitability, exhaustion, prostration, hysteria, spasms and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the womb. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

"Favorite Prescription" is a positive cure for the most complicated and obstinate cases of leucorrhea, excessive flowing, painful menstruation, unnatural suppressions, prolapsus, or falling of the womb, weak back, "female weakness," anteversion, retroversion, bearing-down sensations, chronic congestion, inflammation and ulceration of the womb. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction in every case, or money refunded. See guarantee printed on every bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years. The Republican Purpose.

The Springfield Republican calls attention to the growth of the republican party in a direction that ought to be interesting to democrats—especially to those democratic newspapers who can find nothing in the doctrines of their party to discuss, and so have to depend on snarling at other democrats.

While this fuss is going on among democrats—while the friends of Cleveland and Hill are clawing each other—the republicans are slowly but surely moving their lines forward and intrenching themselves in such a way that a revolution, and a very serious one, will be necessary to dislodge them.

As our Springfield contemporary says, the republican party began its career by insisting that the will of the people should not be obeyed unless it was right—a position involving the higher law doctrines that used to cut such an important figure in political discussions. Gradually, as the Springfield Republican points out, this doctrine has been transformed until it expresses the idea that the people cannot have what they want unless they want what the republican party chooses to give them.

There is no limit to Speaker Reed's power, and there is no protest against it in the republican ranks. That party is acquiescent and obedient. The usurpation that has been accomplished has reached what may be termed the practical stage, and the people who are republicans, indorse it, while the people who are democrats are disposed to make mouths at each other about Cleveland and Hill, as if the salvation of the country depended on the choice of one or the other.

But there are great times ahead in Washington and all over the country, and presently the democratic masses will awake to the fact that they have a struggle before them more important than any that has taken place since the war—a struggle in which all differences and minor theories will disappear. The republicans propose to place their power and their control of the government above the will of the people, and it is for this reason that Speaker Reed has been permitted to carry out the programme of usurpation without any serious protest, even from the more thoughtful republicans.

It is frequently said, and with good reason, that the republican party will be condemned by the people at the next election; but this probability is precisely what the leaders of that party are providing against. Of what avail will be the desires of the people and the result of the elections, when such men as Reed stand ready to count out or count in as they may choose?

There can be no doubt of the purposes of the republicans, and there can be no doubt that they are so intrenching themselves behind usurpation in the house of representatives as to place themselves in a position to carry out these purposes, no matter what the verdict of the people may be.

Hunted Down.

A man may rob a bank or a store and get away, but when he fools with the Adams Express company his doom is sealed.

The express company never lets up. It will spend a small fortune in running a thief to the remotest corner of the globe, and sooner or later it is sure to catch him.

Two years ago a package supposed to contain $41,000 was sent by the American Exchange bank, of New York, through the Adams Express to Washington. When the package reached its destination it was opened and was found to contain blank white paper. The bank blamed the express company, and the latter suspected some employe of the bank. But the company paid the money, and then went quietly to work to find the criminal.

At that time young Edward S. Crawford was a clerk in the bank. He stood well, and when, some months later, he resigned to seek his fortune in Honduras his employers parted regretfully with him.

Mr. Crawford went to Honduras and took a position as manager of a sugar plantation. He wrote to his friends at home, but a certain Mr. Robert Pinkerton was not among his correspondents. And yet Mr. Pinkerton was more interested than anybody else in everything that concerned Crawford. He heard regularly from his brother detectives in Honduras, and finally took a trip to that country, where he surprised Crawford into a confession, and captured him with $32,000 of the stolen money. The American Exchange bank will now reimburse the Adams Express company, but it may be that Crawford will not be brought back. We have no extradition treaty with Honduras, and if Crawford is given up it will be simply an act of courtesy on the part of the president. So the thief may be released, and possibly he will be allowed to retain his boodle.

Even with this unsatisfactory status of the case the express company and Pinkerton have done good work. They have shown that it is possible in the most difficult case to shadow suspected parties for years, and finally hunt down the guilty one. The whole story would be well worth reading. It would be interesting to know why Pinkerton suspected Crawford, how he got into the confidence of his relatives and friends, and how he managed to catch him off his guard and find the money.

Some years before the war the Adams Express company had a somewhat similar experience with one of its own agents at Montgomery. The man was named Maroney. He pocketed about $40,000, and went north. There was no evidence against him, and his outlook was clear. But Pinkerton, the father of the Pinkerton who figures in the present case, was after him. The chase lasted for years, and resulted in establishing Maroney's guilt and recovering some of the money.

While the Pinkertons continue to do business at the same old stand, and the Adams Express company stick to them, the chances of such criminals as Crawford and Maroney will be very slim indeed. It would be well if all our corporations made it a point to pursue and capture defaulters, regardless of the cost. It is the way to make dishonest men act honestly.

Twenty-Five Years After Appomatox.

Twenty-five years ago to-day the tremendous tidings of Appomatox carried unutterable despair to every southern home.

Outnumbered but not outdone, the ragged heroes in gray, who had charged with Pickett and marched with Jackson, surrendered with their great commander. In sullen silence they stacked arms in front of their exultant foemen, and then turned their sad faces southward.

On their homeward way the confederates marched through a desert. Fair cities like Columbia and Atlanta, and numerous towns and villages had been licked up by the flaming tongue of war, and only ash-heaps and blackened walls remained. Great industries and transportation systems had been wrecked, and the plantations had been given up to weeds. Battle-fields, fortresses, trenches, graves—these met the eye at every turn, and back of them were millions of women and children on the verge of starvation, and other millions of life-long slaves rioting in their freedom, and half ready for another revolution.

But the soldiers of Lee, heart-sick and foot-sore, marched bravely back to their starving families, and went to work in their faded jackets of gray. All was gone in the shape of property, except the bare land and a few old houses. Three billion dollars in property had been destroyed, and these moneyless men had to buy their supplies on credit at sixty per cent interest. They were denied even the privilege of governing themselves. Many lived in military districts, under bayonet rule. Negro soldiers swarmed over the land, and rapacious aliens filled the offices and plundered the people.

All this was only a quarter of a century ago. It is well nigh impossible, as the cheer of this April morning thrills our pulses and stirs our blood, to recall the terror and gloom of the dark days that followed the meeting between Grant and Lee at Appomatox.

In less than a generation the dauntless gray veterans have turned the old battle-fields into smiling farms. Stately cities rear their turrets and spires where once stood red redoubts, and the busy hum of peaceful industry makes music where once the welkin rang with the clash of steel and the wild shouts of charging legions.

The rising south to-day greets the world, and points with honest pride to the results of her work. No trace of defeat, of desolation remains. Prosperity has taken the place of poverty. The land is gridironed with railroads. New cities and town surprise the traveler everywhere. Progress is written all over the map. The cotton crop has jumped up to an annual product worth $850,000,000. Thirty million dollars a year has been paid by these toiling southerners in pensions to northern soldiers, to say nothing of $122,000,000 for the free education of all, both white and black.

Despite the wreck and ruin of twenty-five years ago—the robbers that plundered us, and the drain upon our life blood and our hard earnings, the rising south has struggled up to vantage ground again. With a monopoly in cotton, supremacy in iron, and the coal and timber to supply the republic in future, she now occupies a commanding position among the nations. Diversified crops, and great manufacturing industries have wrought a revolution. Outside capital is rushing in. The world has its eyes turned this way.

The great world supply of cotton, iron, timber, coal, marble and granite must come from our fields and mountains, and the world's great factories must do their work in our midst.

When we think of the disastrous chapter of Appomatox let us not forget to look at the shining record unrolled to-day. God reigns, and the south lives—lives regenerated, redeemed and disenthralled, her brow re-crowned, and the scepter again within her grasp. In His own good time, and in His own mysterious ways, through the storm of battle and the humiliation of defeat and poverty the Almighty has led the south out of the darkness into the light, and showered His blessing upon her.

This anniversary brings no gloom with it. The south looks forward and not backward. Henceforth her career will be one of peaceful conquest, under no more war-like banner than that of King Cotton.

A Wicked Old Slave Baron.

In his day he had owned negroes, so we must call him a slave baron, after the fashion of the makers of literature and history in the northern centers of culture.

Wicked, the old slave baron must be styled, because the history-makers and story-tellers will have it so.

The other day, this particular old slave baron, whose name is White, and who lives at Denison, Texas, was reading about the floods in the Mississippi valley. As he read his thoughts wandered back to the barbarous days when he was the lord of half a thousand black slaves, and he suddenly recollected that two of his servitors, Troy Wilson and Perry Lee, were living in the flood region.

The next day the wicked old slave baron took the train for Arkansas, and went straight to the town of Helena, where he proceeded to hunt up his ex-slaves. When he met them an affecting scene took place. The man from Texas shook the hands of his boys, as he called them, and the tears streamed down the faces of the three as they talked. Even the bystanders found their eyes uncomfortably moist as they looked at the little group.

The wicked old slave baron was not satisfied to learn that "his boys," whose heads, by the way, were nearly white, were in no danger from the flood. He took it into his vicious old head that something was wrong, and before returning home purchased a large bill of groceries, and ordered the goods to be sent to the farms of the two negroes.

Having finished his mission, the wicked old slave baron returned to his home in Texas in a joyful mood,

This little incident would furnish the points for a very pleasant little story, or even a sermon, but the northern Tourgees who write stories of southern life, and the Cooks and Greggs who show us up as awful examples are not hunting for such material. They shut their eyes to the truth of history, and no sooner finish one wicked old slave baron than they proceed to manufacture another to be set up as a target for their shining lances.

It is all right—the truth will come out in its own good time, and we can afford to wait.

Boulangists at Breakfast.

The name of Boulanger rarely greets the eye of the newspaper reader now; in fact, the doughty general has dropped out of sight and if he did not occasionally give a breakfast to his friends on the island where he lives, the world would never hear of him at all. But these breakfasts at the general's castle have an air of mystery about them and excite momentary inquiry. Some of his friends predict that they will yet result in a surprise for the people, and thus they give promise for the suspicion that a plot is brewing which, if successful, will bring their fallen idol into public notice and prominance again.

It is fair to presume, however, that these Boulangists conferences have no signigcance and foreshadow nothing. The fickle French have almost forgotten the man they once idolized, who came within a step of reaching the height of political power in France, and whose name was the signal for the applause of the populace.

All that is left him is to gather his few adherants about him, steal into the capital at night, plant his standard in the streets, declare his platform and perish upon it. But we take it that, whatever the general's plans may be for the future, they do not include so rash a programme. He prefers to take care of his health and dine at the expense of his friends in the seclusion and safety of his island home.

Whites and Blacks.

The farmers of Kansas, in their recent address, give congress a trouncing because, as they say, that body has devoted too much time to partisan legislation and too little to the interests of the people. The republican farmers also complain that congress is devoting too much time to the southern negro, to the sacrifice and injury of the western white.

All this amounts to very little. The republican leaders have their plans mapped out, and they propose to carry them out. They will continue to deal in partisan legislation, and they will continue to make an issue of the negro, not only to the injury of western white, but to the negro himself.

The more thoughtful of the negroes are already beginning to perceive that the agitation of which they are the object is injurious to their interests. As evidence of this, the official organ of the negroes of North Carolina, as stated in our special dispatches yesterday, announces that a state convention of negroes is soon to be held for the purpose of considering the propriety of cutting adrift from the white politicians, who have misled the negro, preyed upon him and used him as a tool. Our dispatch states that the negroes are greatly stirred up on the subject.

It is to be hoped all this is true. It certainly ought to be true, for it is a fact that, from first to last, the negroes have been sacrificed to the interests of the republican politicians in the south. They have been taught to hate and distrust the very people among whom they are compelled to live, and this will be fatal to their success and prosperity if it is persisted in. When the negroes perceive this fact and act on it, there will no longer be a negro problem.

The Exposition in October.

The Piedmont Exposition company addresses a few words in another column to our citizens, and it is to be hoped that the company's appeal will meet with a substantial response.

The president and directors have gone to work in earnest to give the people this fall the grandest exposition ever held in this region. For two weeks in October we may expect to see Atlanta crowded with visitors from all parts of the country. A great deal of money will naturally be spent by these sojourners, and all classes and interests will be more or less benefitted.

In order to make the show a splendid success, some money will have to be expended this spring and summer, and the managers feel that they have a right to call upon our citizens for material aid. Undoubtedly the money contributed to push this enterprise will come back to the people in some shape and our business men generally, it is safe to say, will gladly help the exposition along.

That Atlanta will do her level best in the matter ought to be a settled fact.

WE may remark in passing that if Buck and Brer Estill were to lock arms they couldn't hurt THE CONSTITUTION.

WHEN the czar goes on a Russian jay it is given out that he has been assassinated—and he might as well be.

THE democrats of Rhode Island have probably got all the ballot reform, so-called, that they will want this year.

THREE more months of Buck will leave nothing in the republican party but an empty chicken coop.

THE spectacle of Brer Estill using Buck as a battering-ram against THE CONSTITUTION is an engaging one. Somebody should have shot off a Kodak at it.

IT is intimated that Bismarck paid his tailor before leaving Berlin.

QUAY'S hand was not mailed by John Wanamaker.

THE Pan-Americans are about to swoop down on us. They will be offered the liberdad of the city.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

IN 1860 the country consumed about 90,000,000 gallons of whisky, and in 1880 only about 80,000,000 gallons. In other words thirty million Americans drank more whisky in 1860 than sixty millions did twenty years later. The increasing popularity of beer accounts for this falling off in the consumption of whisky.

NEW YORK is full of women who write stories and newspaper matter for almost nothing. They are so anxious to get into print that they are satisfied to work hard and furnish matter at the rate of about seventy-five cents a column. Their male competitors get from five to eight dollars a column on an average, but of course first-class writers command higher rates.

RICHARD PROCTOR, JR., son of the late famous astronomer of that name, is supposed to be wandering about St. Louis in a deranged condition. Proctor's insanity takes the form of an exaggerated idea of great wealth. He is without money or friends, and if not speedily found will run the risk of getting into serious trouble.

CHEAP, flashy novels and cheap, flashy newspapers are running over the country like a flood. There never was a time when so much worthless trash was published and read. Some of our reputable writers, in order to fill their pockets, are turning out stuff which they will be ashamed to see their names connected with a few years later. The Ned Buntline Bohemians of forty years ago were scholars and gentlemen compared with some of the popular novelists of the present day, and the blackguard reporters who used to be sent to jail were models of decency by the side of some of the impudent rogues who now hold high-salaried positions on some of the big northern and western dailies.

GLIMPSES OF GEORGIA.

It is said that Editor Gunn, of Cuthbert, is running a race with Editor Underwood on the watermelon crop. His delinquent subscribers can now take a day off and enjoy life.

Editor Mosely, of the Rome Alliance Herald, has yielded to temptation and will start a daily paper in Rome.

The Sandersville Progress is appropriately named. Editor Hilton and his paper are nothing if not progressive. The Progress is doing good work.

The Savannah Daily Times is the newsiest paper published in that city. And since Editor Hartridge returned from Cuba it is brighter than it ever was.

Only seven editors of the weekly press wear spectacles. The rest are too young to need them, and depend on linen dusters to give them an air of dignity.

Branham, of Brunswick, speaks Spanish fluenlty. For this reason the Georgia editors wanted him to accompany them on their recent Cuban trip. But he was then making the rounds of all the Georgia railroads, and couldn't leave. It is said that he boards every train that comes in his reach. He rides on principle.

THE CONSTITUTION CYCLOPEDIA.

What Mandrakes Were Used For.

HEATH, Tex., Rockwall County, April 4.—Editors Constitution: I ask through THE CONSTITUTION for some one to give in some succeding edition of your weekly paper a full history and general account and usefulness of "mandrakes" which are made mention of in the 30th chapter of Genesis. Respectfully your subscriber.

J. J. BROWN.

The mandrake is a stemless plant, concealing pale voilet colored flowers beneath its lanceolate leaves. It has a large forked root, which the ancients likened to a human body. There were some curious superstitions connected with the plant. One was that a man who pulled it up would die. But mandrakes were much sought after for love philters, and men resorted to a curious device to pluck the plant. A dog was tied to the root of a mandrake, and then the man walked off. The dog, trying to follow his master, tugged away till he pulled up the root; but in doing so expired.

In old testament times the mandrake was highly prized because of its supposed efficacy as a cure for barrenness—something the women of old were much more averse to than some of their fashionable decendants of the present day. It is recorded in the chapter you mention, and the one which precedes it, that Rachel, the best beloved wife of Jacob, was barren, while Leah, who was held in less esteem, continued to carry out the injunction, "Be fruitful and multiply the earth." When Leah had become the mother of Reuben, Simeon, Levi and Judah, Rachel was well nigh desparate with envy. So sore was this jealousy, that it came near breaking up the affectionate relations between Jacob and Rachel.

In the meantime Leah had ceased to bear children, and both of the women were for a time fruitless. Finally, Leah's son, Reuben, went out to the wheat harvest and found some mandrakes, which he, like the good boy that he was, brought home to his mother. When Rachel saw that Leah had the coveted mandrakes, she was possessed with a desire to have them. On what terms she procured them the inspired writer informs you; but what is worth mentioning here is the fact that after this Rachel, who had been barren before, subsequently bore a son, whose name she called Joseph. So it may be inferred that but for those mandrakes plucked in the harvest time, there might not have been any Joseph to go down into Egypt. Recognizing fully the statement of the inspired writer that God remembered Rachel, still we know God uses means, and it may be the humblest mandrake that was the means of restoring Rachel to the fruitfulness for which she had so long yearned. With this foundation, it is rather astonishing that some Hebrew poet has not embalmed the mandrake in undying song. It is mentioned by Solomon in the seventh chapter of this song, which is a poem of passion, beside which the erotic effusions of late sent out by some ardent females is as wan and chill as an Artic night.

State Pension For Widows.

THE CONSTITUTION has received scores of letters asking whether the last legislature provided a pension for widows. The answer is that it did not. In fact, it could not under the constitution. But it did pass an act submitting the matter to the people in a constitutional amendment; and there is little doubt that the people will ratify that amendment at the elections this fall. The exact status of the matter is this:

The constitution of Georgia limits the taxing power of the legislature to certain specified purposes. One of them was to supply artificial limbs to maimed confederate soldiers. An amendment ratified by the people in 1886 authorized tax to be levied for pensions to confederate soldiers otherwise disabled or permanently injured in the service.

What the last legislature did was to submit to the people for ratification a further amendment authorizing the legislature to levy tax for the additional purpose, stated by the amendment as follows:

And for the widows of such confederate soldiers as may have died in the service of the confederate states, or since from wounds received therein, or disease contracted in the service;

Provided, That this act shall only apply to such persons as were married at the time of such service, and have remained unmarried since the death of such soldier husband.

If the people vote this amendment this fall, it will then remain for the next legislature to pass an act carrying it into effect. That will undoubtedly be done in some form if the people vote for the amendment, as there is little doubt they will. But if this is done it could not go into effect until the taxes for 1891 have been levied and collected.

Joseph Jefferson.

When was Joe Jefferson born? SUBSCRIBER.

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, was born in Philadelphia on the 20th of February, 1829, and is consequently a little more than sixth-one years of age. He is the third Joseph Jefferson, and his father and grandfather were actors before him. Histrionic talent is represented in the fourth generation by Mr. Jefferson's son, whose company appeared in Atlanta last night. Mr. Joseph Jefferson's grandfather was an Englishman who came to this country and made a reputation as a comedian on the Philadelphia stage. His naturalness of expression and action, and his freedom from extravagance in tone and gesture gave him pre-eminence, thus foreshadowing the great strength of his grandson whom we know. The second Joseph Jefferson married Miss Burke, a vocalist who became the mother of the actor of Rip Van Winkle. At the age of three Joseph Jefferson first appeared on the stage as the child in "Pizarro, or the Death of Rolla." At fourteen he joined a strolling band of players in Texas, and subsequently followed the United States army into Mexico.

Mr. Jefferson's first great success was with Laura Keene in New York in 1858. On the 18th of October he made a great impression by his personification of "Aser Trenchard," in "Our American Cousin."

The play ran there 150 nights. He went to Australia in 1860 and remained four years. In September, 1865, he appeared at the Adelphia theater, London, in Rip Van Winkle. He had seen other dramatizations of Irving's story, and meeting Dion Boucicault in London suggested a new dramatization, giving his ideas which were incorporated with great skill by Bousicault. The play ran 150 nights there, and has been a great favorite ever since. In this play many think Mr. Jefferson's art is more perfect than that of Booth or any other living actor. A peculiar feature of the case is that Mr. Jefferson's father generally acted the part of an old man.

Mr. Jefferon is now publishing his autobiography in serial form in the Century magazine, and in it most of the prominent stage artists of the century are described.

"At the Top of the Ladder."

From the Augusta Evening News.

The biggest yet. THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION of Sunday contains thirty-two pages. This is the top of the ladder.

SOME MEN YOU MEET.

The Monday one o'clock fast train on the Georgia road is invariably crowded as it pulls into the union depot, and these days about every other man on the train is a politician To a stranger, the rest of the passengers of the male persuasion would, too, be placed in the the same class, for all are talking politics.

Last week there was an unusually large quota of the politically inclined, among them several of the "big guns." These were President Livingston of the alliance, who is looked upon as a politician, but who swears he isn't; President Peek, of the alliance exchange who may try to prevent his name being used in the congressional race, but whose friends think he ought to make the race. Colonel Bob Hardeman, whose influence every candidate seeks, but who, as he expresses it, is just now "busy toting his own skillet." Colonel Jim Hunnicutt, who would like to be commissioner of agriculture, and who, if report is true, is "stirring 'em up" wherever he speaks. There were others, too, but Livingston, Hardeman, Peek and Hunnicutt attracted greatest attention.

"I see you're put down for congress now. How about that?" Colonel Livingston was asked.

"What's that? For congress, you say? Well, 'go away from home to learn the news,' is an old saying," and the head of the alliance laughed heartily. "I wonder why it is they are always trying to make me out a candidate for something or other. I am a candidate for no office at present. Where do all these rumors spring from, anyway?"

Somebody suggested that to many people the fact that he was going around the state making speeches seemed proof positive of political aspirations.

"I am working only for our order," he answered. "When I assumed the responsibilities of the presidency, I realized fully the duties and the responsibilities of the office. You may be sure that I am going to do nothing that will jeopardize the good of the order."

Then he changed the subject.

A prominent south Georgia business man who sat not far off and who had overheard the talk turned to his companions and said: "I'm not an alliance man but am one of the middlemen at whom their exchange—indirectly at least—aims. The alliance in my county is going to send two men to the legislature whom I do not consider fit for the position and I have incurred their displeasure by saying so. But despite all that, I want to tell you one thing, and that is that the alliance has done the farmer a very great deal of good. The organization has given him an independence which is most valuable, and has taught him sensible economy. Give the farmers of Georgia one more good crop, and, working under alliance leadership, they will lift entirely the load of debt that has been weighing them down. They'll become independent, and they will make money."

Editor Harry Brown, of the Southern Alliance Farmer, has a right to be a little egotistical over the success of his paper. The Farmer is the organ of the alliancemen, not in name alone, but in fact, and the farmers lose no opportunity of showing the appreciation of the work he is doing for them. A striking instance of this occurred at the meeting of the DeKalb county alliance last week. In describing the incident, the Farmer says: "The county alliance in session had just one hundred brethren in the house, and when the worthy president requested that all who were subscribers to the Southern Alliance Farmer to rise, seventy men rose and stood until counted. After the seventy were seated, the president requested all who intended to arrange to take the paper at once to please rise. At this twenty-one men stood up, making, out of one hundred men, ninety-one who were subscribers. The remaining nine were principally members of families in which some member was taking the paper."

Editor Brown's challenge to the world "to beat this" will doubtless not be taken up.

"Captain" Whack Bailey, of the firm of O'Connor & Bailey, probably the largest wholesale liquor dealers in the south, is spending a few days in the city, and is, of course, warmly welcomed by his many friends here.

* *

Colonel James M. Mobley, of Harris county, was in the city this week in the interest of the Gordon Guards, a new cavalry company organized in Hamilton, and named in honor of the governor. Colonel Mobley urged the advisory board at its meeting to allow the company the usual equipment of saddles, sabres, and other accourtrements. He was assurred that the company would be supplied as soon as possible. Colonel Mobley is one of the strongest men in southwest Georgia. His political influence has been felt in many campaigns, and he is by no means through yet. He has many friends in Atlanta, who are always glad to see him.

GEORGIA FARMERS.

—Mr. W. C. Whitmire is one of the most successful farmers of Floyd county. He has embarked in the business of stock raising and is making a success of it.

—Mr. Robert Pryor, of Lee county, not only raises all his own meat, but enough to keep the local market supplied the year round.

—Mr. T. F. Howell, of Floyd, is said to have the finest Jersey farm in the state.

—Hon. James M. Smith, of Oglethorpe county, made on seven acres of upland, near his cow barn, eighty-four barrels, or four hundred and twenty bushels of corn. This is a yield of sixty bushels to the acre. This corn was planted June 10, 1889. On fifteen acres, near his mule barn, he made one hundred and twenty-three barrels, or six hundred and fifteen bushels of corn, which is forty-one bushels to the acre.

—The Talliaferro county alliance will meet on Thursday, April 24th.

—The alliancemen of Brooks county feel sure that they will succeed in establishing a bank at Quitman, Ga., this spring.

—The Cuthbert Liberal is doing good work for the alliance in Randolph county.

—The Gainesville Industrial News says the prospects among county sub-alliances are steadily improving and new members are being added to the lodges at every meeting.

—Editor Coleman, of the Cedartown Standard, as an alliance organizer has been very successful. He has not only been doing good for the order by his personal work, but has devoted much space in his paper to its interests.

THE ROME AND DECATUR

PASSES UNDER CONTROL OF THE EAST TENNESSEE ROAD.

A New Combination which Will Have an Important Bearing on the Railroad Situation—The Latest Developments.

ROME, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—The Rome and Decatur railroad has been sold to the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia system, and it is reported that Mr. R. Lapsley, of Selma, special law agent for the Alabama division, has been instructed by General Counsel Baxter to have the deeds recorded in Floyd county, and to have the same record made in all the counties of Georgia and Alabama through which the road runs. It is said the change will be made about the first of May, when the receiver, R. T. Dorsey, will turn over the road to the new owners.

THE PROBABILITIES.

The East Tennessee people have had an option on this road for some time. It is expected by our citizens that the road will be promptly extended to Decatur, and with the connection with the Louisville and Nashville will be of immense benefit to Rome. This, of course, will make Rome the center of this grand system, reaching east via Knoxville, north to Cincinnati, west to Nashville and Memphis and south to Selma and New Orleans, and to Atlanta and Brunswick, by the Georgia division. The report comes from most reliable authority, and has been verified by officials of the road here, who acknowledge the facts, and do not hesitate to talk. It is also stated that the Cincinnati, Selma and Mobile has also been purchased by the East Tennessee. The meeting of stockholders of this system will be held at Knoxville on the 15th of April, and the sale will be confirmed at that time.

POLITICAL NOTES.

—LaGrange Graphic: Politics are mighty quiet so far. Not a man has yet popped up for the legislature.

—Colonel W. W. Cato is a candidate for re-election to the office of tax collector of Troup county.

—LaGrange Graphic: To the county of Troup this time belongs the privilege of furnishing the state senator from this district to the next legislature, and Hon. Seth Tatum seems to be the coming man.

—A correspondent of the LaGrange Graphic suggests that a day be appointed for the holding of a primary election there, to nominate city officers.

—Athens Daily Ledger: The legislative candidates were out in full force today, shaking hands with their friends. The fight has begun in earnest.

GEORGIA NEWS.

—The mayor and council of LaGrange are on a trade with the electric light company with a view of substituting electricity for the expensive kerosene lamps now used for the alleged purpose of lighting the city.

—Mr. Hughes, of the firm of Russell & Hughes, Athens, owns a track of land in the phosphate belt of Florida, for which he has recently refused $20,000 in cash. It is said to be much more valuable than that.

—The Athens Banner says that Hon. James M. Smith has made all of his preparations to build a road from Smithonia to tap the Georgia, Carolina and Northern as soon as possible.

—A party of forty capitalists from Kentucky visited Rome last Friday, with a view of making investments.

—The Red Men and Masons of Louisville have decided to erect a fine building on the present site of the old Masonic Lodge. It will be completed in time for the lower rooms to be used for business next fall.

—Bainbridge Democrat: Hon W. A. Harris has appointed as census enumerators, Hon. William W. Harrell, F. S. Harrell, M. W. Bates in addition to Mr. George D. Griffin.

—Eddie Myers, of Waterville, is a success as a marksman. He recently killed two very large hawks, and four turkeys. The weight of the latter aggregated seventy-one pounds.

—Chattanooga News: Inspector A. G. Sharp received notice of the arrest of J. E. Jones, postmaster at Herndon, Burke county, Ga., who is short in his accounts to the amount of $600. He wrote out many orders payable to himself. This is the fifth time he has been arrested. He has always made his shortage good.

—The different alliances of Franklin county have raised $425 toward the completion of the Carnesville railroad.

—Mr. James Rodgers, or Sumter City, died on Sunday night at his plantation near that place Mr. Rodgers was a prominent citizen and an influential man in his community.

—A serious accident happened at Leslie Monday afternoon to Mr. Henry Conners, one of the firm of Jones & Conners, the proprietors of a large lumber yard at that place. A large pile of lumber fell upon him, injuring him seriously about the head and breast.

The Georgia Railroad Commission.

The members of the railroad commission have, one after the other, suffered from attacks of the grip. First of all Colonel Robertson was attacked; then Colonel Trammell was laid up; and Colonel Erwin is now the sufferer; and his case seems the most serious of them all. A letter was received yesterday at the commissioners' office stating that Colonel Erwin was suffering severely and his doctor advised him to go to Florida to recuperate. It will, therefore, be some time before he is again in Atlanta. The two remaining commissioners are, however, far from idle. During their colleague's absence they will thoroughly overhaul the present tariff system with a view of making some radical changes.

Concedes the Appropriation.

RESURRECTION.

"I am the resurrection, and the life."
—John XI: 25.

"I am the resurrection, and the life!"
Dear words, divinely true!
Nature is with their holy spirit rife,
And quickened through and through;
"Awake! Come forth!" I hear her gently call,
"Out of the grave arise!"
And straightway, casting off her shroud and pall,
Spring opes her wondering eyes!

With curious ear, prest close against the ground
I hear the grasses grow,
And through the treeboles runs a pleasant sound—
It is the sap a-flow!
Hark to the silvery clash of shield and spear,
Amid the mellow mould!
The Fairy legions of the Spring draw near;
I see their crests of gold!

Fields, woods and hills have donned a greener hue,
Striped with the rainbow's dyes,
And when I look above, a brighter blue
Adorns the shining skies;
On all the world Love's benediction rests—
The very birds a-wing,
By the glad way they flutter 'round their nests,
Proclaim the bliss of Spring!

"I am the resurrection!" Blessed words,
The truest of our Faith!
Nature, herself, indubious proof affords
That Life is lord of Death;
For when her wonderwand in Spring she waves,
And buds begin to swell,
Repeats she not, at thousand opening graves,
The Lazarus miracle?

CLEMSON WILL CASE

INVOLVING THE TITLE TO THE JOHN C. CALHOUN HOMESTEAD,

Which is Now Declared the Property of the State of South Carolina, and will be the Site of an Agricultural College.

A famous will case ended.

The decision of the supreme court of the United States was given briefly in yesterday's CONSTITUTION, a special from Washington.

The history of the case is a peculiarly interesting one, involving as it does the title to the old home of John C. Calhoun, Fort Hill, in South Carolina.

It was here that the "nullification declarations" were prepared by Mr. Calhoun, the papers bearing the postmark "Fort Hill." Here also Mr. Calhoun's famous letter to the governor, upon the question of nullification, was written.

It is the birth-place of Hon. Pat Calhoun, of Atlanta, who was an attorney in the case.

The issue was between Miss Isabella Lee, a great granddaughter of John C. Calhoun, and the state of South Carolina.

THE SECOND OWNER

was Mr. Calhoun's widow, Mrs. Floride Calhoun. May 13th, 1854, Mrs. Calhoun and her daughter, Cornelia Calhoun, conveyed the place to Andrew P. Calhoun for $49,000, including a number of negroes and their personalty. Andrew Calhoun gave a mortgage for $40,000.

Afterwards he offered, several times, to pay the $40,000, but this was not done because his mother preferred drawing interest on the money as an investment.

M.. Andrew Calhoun died just after the war, leaving the mortgage unpaid. The mortgage, it should be stated, was given to his mother alone.

Mrs. Calhoun died in 1871.

By the provisions of her will a three-fourth interest in the mortgage was left to her daughter, Mrs. A. G. Clemson, and the remainder to Miss Floride Clemson. Mrs. Clemson was allowed to dispose of her interest in the mortgage as she saw fit. It was further provided that if the mortgage was foreclosed and the property bought under the foreclosure, the place was to stand in lieu of the mortgage.

SOLD AT AUCTION.

The mortgage was foreclosed and the place sold January 1, 1872. It was bought in the name of A. G. Clemson as trustee for his wife.

Miss Floride Clemson married Gideon Lee, of New York, and died leaving a daughter, Miss Isabella Lee.

CLEMSON'S INTEREST.

Mrs. Clemson died, leaving "the entire property and estate to which she was then in any wise entitled, or which she might afterward acquire," to her husband, Thomas G. Clemson, in fee simple.

Then in a will made in 1886, altered in 1887, Mr. Clemson left the property to the state of South Carolina.

He died in 1888, and in November his executor addressed a letter to the legislature of South Carolina proffering to make the deed to the state if the conditions were accepted.

A COLLEGE SITE.

These provisions of the Clemson will were, in effect, that the property was to be used as the site for an agricultural college, known as the Clemson Agricultural college. This was to be controlled by a board of thirteen trustees, seven named in the will, and the others to be named by the state. In case of a vacancy amongst the seven named by Mr. Clemson, the vacancy was to be filled by election by the remainder, so that this number—a majority of the board—was to be self-perpetuating.

THE FIGHT BEGINS.

Miss Lee, the great grand daughter of John C. Calhoun, and the sole heir of Mrs. Floride Clemson Lee, filed a bill of injunction to prevent the executor of the Clemson estate making a deed to the state of South Carolina.

It was contended that Mrs. Clemson had conveyed to her husband only the property that was actually hers, the rents then in hand, from the estate, with certain other property left her by her mother's will, amounting to about $4,500, and did not intend to convey the estate in which she had, it was contended, only a life interest, and that the homestead she expected to become the property of Mrs. Floride Clemson Lee.

TWO TRIALS.

The injunction was granted, and the case was tried before Chief Justice Fuller and Judges Bond and Simonton in the circuit court at Charleston.

It was decided against Miss Lee.

An appeal was taken to the supreme court, and the decision which has just been announced confirms the decision of the lower court.

The case was advanced on the docket through the efforts of the attorney-general of South Carolina, acting under instructions from the legislature.

The arguments in the last trial were all in writing. Perhaps the most exhaustive argument on either side was that of Mr. Alex. King, of the Atlanta firm of Calhoun, King & Spalding. This was highly commended in Washington, and is considered one of the ablest arguments made before that court in years. It embodied all that could be said in the interest of Miss Lee, as remainderman under the will of Mrs. Calhoun.

The decision is against Miss Lee, however, and is final.

THE HISTORY OF THE CASE.

Thomas G. Clemson who married the daughter of John C. Calhoun, made Fort Hill, their home. They lived there quietly and plainly. When Mrs. Clemson died, Mr. Clemson was left as the sole occupant of Fort Hill. He lived there almost as a hermit, never leaving his own grounds, but taking the greatest pride and pleasure in showing visitors over the place, and Mr. Calhoun's library and private rooms. No one suspected that the old man had any money, and only a short while before he died Mr. Gideon Lee wrote to a merchant at Pendleton and told him to let him have any groceries that he might need, and send the bill on to him.

Mr. Clemson died in the spring of 1888, and the contents of his will caused a surprise. This old man, who had been considered a penniless old imbecile, had left the Fort Hill place as a seat for the founding of an agricultural and mechanical college, and his private fortune, which amounted to about $100,000, as an endowment.

This will fell like a thunderclap upon the Calhoun family. It was generally thought that Fort Hill would descend to Miss Isabella Lee, who was the daughter of Mrs. Clemson's sister, and consequently the granddaughter of the great statesman. Miss Lee was given the Calhoun plate and portraits, and a bequest of $10,000 on condition that she would not contest the will. It had long been understood that she was to let John C. Calhoun, of New York, and Pat Calhoun, of Atlanta, Ga., have the Fort Hill place, and that they were to fix it up in grand style as the old homestead and use it as a summer home. They at once set about to defeat Clemson's purposes.

They contended that Clemson was an imbecile, and that he had no real title to the property, which was his wife's. The will looked to the acceptance of the bequest by the state, and to its supplementing the amount of money willed by annual appropriations to the college. It provided that the state should elect six trustees to co-operate with the seven named in the will.

This threw the matter into politics and the question of the state's acceptance of the Clemson bequest was made the chief issue in the campaign for the election of the legislature of 1888. The friends of the South Carolina college fought the friends of the Clemson college, and the campaign was the bitterest known in South Carolina since the great campaign of 1876. The farmers won and sent a majority of the adherents of Clemson college to the legislature. A hard fight was made in the legislature, but the bill providing for the state's acceptance was carried through both the house and the senate. The governor, however, refused to sign the bill. He is allowed by the constitution the right to hold over a bill until the first three days of the next session, if he wishes. He exercised this right on the ground that he did not care to make the state a party to the cause then in the United States court. But when the legislature reassembled in last December, the governor signed the bill, thereby accepting the bequest.

The executor of the will then made over a deed of the property to the state, and the attorney-general was instructed to co-operate with the lawyers already employed by the executor of the will in defending it in the case now before the United States supreme court. The legislature also provided for the immediate erection of suitable buildings for the college, and for the opening of the institution with complete apparatus and full faculty at as early a day as possible. Fort Hill is a fine old plantation of about a thousand acres, about two miles from Pendleton, the nearest railroad station. The dwelling is a typical old southern plantation home. It sits on the top of a commanding hill. The large white columns to its piazza attract the attention of all passers by. The old house is in a fine state of preservation, and contains all the furniture, books, portraits and other relics of Mr. Calhoun. The trustees propose to keep the house intact as a kind of Calhoun memorial.

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

There will be a very pleasant entertainment given at the German Lutheran church, corner Garnett and Forsyth streets, next Friday evening, for the benefit of the Sunday school. The ladies of the church have spared no pains in preparing a very interesting programme, and promise all who may attend a very pleasant time. An admission will be charged of twenty-five cents for adults, and ten cents for children. Seats free.

WEST POINT, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Mr. W. S. Duncan, of Atlanta, was married to Miss Gertrude Sharpe, of this place, this morning at 10 o'clock. The marriage was a brilliant affair in every way. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. F. Hayes, by Rev. Dr. Parker, of the Methodist church.

Miss Sharpe is one of West Point's fairest daughters, thoroughly educated and highly accomplished. She has been a charming member of society here since her debut, and is universally loved and admired. She is indeed a treasure, and the fortunate groom is to be congratulated upon winning one so fair and lovely.

Mr. Duncan is a prosperous young merchant of Atlanta, and is at the head of the large firm of Duncan & Camp. He is counted one of Atlanta's most progressive young business men, and has scores of friends throughout the state who will be glad to hear of his good fortune.

Immediately after the marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan left for Florida and Cuba, where they will spend a few weeks, after which they will return to Atlanta, their future home.

DECATUR, Ga., April 7.—[Special.]—The Anna Safford missionary society gave an entertainment at the Presbyterian church Friday night. The programme was exceedingly pleasant, interesting and instructive and was greatly enjoyed by all present. After the entertainment the mite boxes were opened. The following members had mite boxes: Lewis Gaines, Robert Billups, Mrs. R. F. Green, Lonnie Houston, Lillie Lathrop, Julia Pratt, Hattie Winn, Emma Kirkpatrick, Katherine Kirkpatrick, Mrs. T. L. Cooper, Laura Candler, Mrs. G. W. Scott, Louise Scott, Helen Ramspeck, Mrs. M. A. Laird, Jean Ramspeck, Belle Crane and Mrs. H. J. Williams. The amount received from the mite boxes was $46.25. A collection was taken up and $13.78 added to the amount. The society feel greatly encouraged at their success the past year, and enter this year's work with new life and energy.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

THE NEWS OF THE DAY IN CONDENSED FORM.

Leaves from the Notebooks of Constitution Reporters—Notes of News and Gossip—Street Scenes and Incidents.

Dr. Thomas Will Go to New York.—Dr. E. G. Thomas leaves for New York today, where he will be associated for several weeks with Dr. Parmly Brown, who is considered one of the most progressive men in the profession of dentistry.

A Newspaper Man's Prosperity.—Mr. D. B. Freeman, of the Cartersville Courant-American, was in the city yesterday. He says that he is making so much money that he has to come to Atlanta every few days to invest in Atlanta dirt. Under the management of himself and Mr. Alex Willingham, the success of the Courant-American has been phenomenal.

A Big Catch.—Mr. Tom Mivarn, with Mr John Smith and Sam Mauldin, of Reynoldstown, went to South river on a fishing trip yesterday morning. They left at 7:30 and returned at 4:30, bringing back one hundred and ten pounds of fish, caught with the seine during the day. At the first haul they caught seventy, and at the first three hauls one hundred and forty-nine pounds. And it was not an extra day for fish either.

Sunday School Convention.—The twenty-fourth annual convention of the Fulton County Sunday school association will be held at Hunter Street Christian church this morning at 10 o'clock. The announcement that Rev. Dr. J. W. Lee will deliver the annual address will fill the house, but there are many other interesting items on the programme. The singing by the choir of Hunter Street church and by the quartette of the Church of the Redeemer will be worth hearing.

Chaplain Barrett.—The Atlanta Artillery held an enthusiastic meeting last night at their armory in the new capitol. A number of new men were elected, and other business of importance transacted. Rev. R. S. Barrett, rector of St. Luke's, was elected chaplain of the artillery. Chaplain Barrett succeeds Rev. N. Keff Smith, who resigned sometime ago.

The European Party.—Dr. Barrett's excursion party, which will visit Europe this summer under the guidance of Dr. R. S. Barrett, is now nearly made up. Dr. Barrett has limited the number to nineteen, and of these fourteen ladies and gentlemen have already handed in their names. Dr. Barrett is anxious to have any one else who desires to go with him to send their names, as the Umbria sails on July 5th, and after this week it will be too late to secure a passage.

Knights of Honor.—A number of prominent Knights of Honor were in the city last night, on their way to Canton, Ga., to attend the meeting of the grand lodge of the state. They leave in a body this morning. Mr. H. W. Newman is down from Canton, and will go back in charge of the party today. He says Canton is preparing to give the knights a royal welcome.

DIED AT SMITHVILLE,

Mrs. Eleanor McAffee Passes Away—End of a Christian Life.

Private telegrams received in the city yesterday, announces the death, at her home in Smithville, Lee county, Ga., of Mrs. Eleanor McAffee, widow of the late Mr. W. M. McAffee.

Mrs. McAffee was in her seventy-third year, and was born in Gwinett county. She was the daughter of the late Evan Howell of that county, and a sister of the late Judge Clark Howell of this county.

Forty years ago, Mr. and Mrs McAffee moved from their home in Cherokee, Georgia, to Houston county, and settled at Fort Valley. Afterwards they moved to Smithville, where they both lived until they were carried away by death.

Mrs. McAffee has been since a young lady a consistant member of the Methodist church and was always kind and charitable as a neighbor. She was for years the center of a loving family who will deeply mourn her loss. She died at 7 o'clock yesterday morning very suddenly, and will be buried today at Smithville beside her husband who preceded her to the grave only a few years.

A large circle of loving friends and relatives of Mrs. McAffee in the upper part of Georgia join with friends and relatives in southwest Georgia in mourning the death of this truly good Christian woman.

THE FIRST CHURCH REVIVAL.

The Rev. Dr. Leftwich Assisting Dr. Morrison at the First Methodist.

Every night during this week there will be revival services at the First Methodist church. For several nights the meetings have been in progress and a deep spiritual feeling has been manifested. The celebrated divine Rev. Dr. Leftwich, of Nashville, will preach this afternoon at 4 o'clock, and there will be no services tonight because of the Walker-Snider wedding.

Every other night this week the revival will continue and Dr. Leftwich will assist Dr. Morrison.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend these meetings.

HIT WITH A BRICK.

Two Men Have a Rough and Tumble Fight on Collins Street.

Yesterday afternoon there was a rough and tumble fight in an alley on Collins street.

W. J. Epson and Sam Vaughn became engaged in a quarrel, and Epson struck Vaughn with a brick, cutting a gash in his face. Vaughn did the best he could with his fist, but was almost exhausted when Patrolmen Jim Wootten and Ethridge arrested them.

Epson was locked up and Vaughn was released on a copy in order that he might get his wounds dressed.

Memorial Day in Sparta.

The Ladies' Memorial association of Hancock has made ample preparation for the observance of Memorial Day. Professor W. T. Dumas, poet and teacher, has been chosen to deliver the address, which will be worthy of himself and of the occasion. A prominent place in the exercises will be assigned to the young people, who grew up here with the proper teaching as to the significance of the day. There is no spot in Georgia where confederate heroism is held in higher honor than here in Sparta. "Esto perpetua."

West End Baptist Church.

S. Y. Jameson pastor. A series of meetings will be begun Wednesday evening, the 9th instant. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. G. M. Cater, of South Carolina, and there will be preaching every evening at 7:30 for the remainder of the week, and probably through next week.

AND FOLLOWING DAYS.

Excursions trains will be run from New England, leaving Boston, Saturday,

APRIL 19, 1890.

The Cadiff properties are not experimental. The Coal and Iron have been profitably mined more than twenty years. The location is in the midst of already developed properties. The Company owns over 50,000 acres of Coal and Iron and Timber lands, situated in the Tennessee counties of Roane, Cumberland and Morgan. Its city of Cardiff contains over 3,000 acres.

There is scarcely any industry which cannot find a favorable chance at Cardiff for successful establishment and profit. The development is in charge of men of approved judgment and experience. Excursions to Cardiff for the sale, will be arranged from principal cities of the North and West.

Proceeds of sales to be applied to the development of the property by the erection of Iron Furnaces, Coke Ovens, Hotel, Water Works, Motor Line, Electric Lights, Mfg Plants, Public Buildings, etc.

A plan will be offered which will enable purchasers to secure lots at reasonable and not speculative prices, the intention being to give patrons of the sale a chance to make a profit, as well as the Co.

Accommodations will be provided for all attending the sale.

APPOMATOX.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF THE SURRENDER.

The Fateful Ninth of April on which the Confederacy Surrendered to the Inevitable.

Twenty-five years ago today General Lee surrendered at Appomatox.

Then ended the greatest struggle the world ever witnessed.

It was a time that tried the souls of heroes as they had never been tried.

Strong men wept like women, and the sound of heartrending sobs and deep lamentations filled the air.

The history of the days immediately preceding the 9th of April, 1865, read like a romance. It may be that that generation of southern men was a generation of heroes or it may be that the trials, dangers, and hardships with which they contended for four years had turned them into men of steel, for it is certain that General Lee's army performed deeds which now seem superhuman.

On the night of the 25th of March, the last attack of the confederates on the federal lines at Petersburg was made.

General John B. Gordon led the attack, and before daylight, captured Fort Steadman, 1,000 prisoners, nine cannons and eleven mortars. Among his prisoners was General McMouglin, who commanded that part of the federal lines.

This attack, though successful, failed to accomplish the desired result, because of the failure of Pickett's division to come up in time, and because of the loss of the guides who were, in the dark, to have conducted the confederates to the rear of the forts overlooking Fort Steadman, which had already fallen into General Gordon's hands at his first direct assault.

On the night of the 1st of April General Grant began night assaults on various parts of the confederate lines.

The confederate numbers had been so greatly reduced by disease and starvation that their battle line behind the trenches made little more than a line of skirmishers.

On the morning of the 2d of April numbers conquered, and General Grant broke Lee's lines at two or three points, and poured his army over the breastworks in torrents where A. P. Hill's corps had been in position.

General Hill was among the first to be killed, and his men were steadily driven back, although they stubbornly contested every foot of the ground.

Just before nightfall General Lee notified General Gordon to cease fighting and prepare to evacuate Petersburg. That night he also directed General Gordon to hold his position until the balance of the army could cross the river behind that part of the line held by General Gordon's troops.

When the other commands had crossed the river and all the artilery and the waggon trains had also safely crossed, General Gordon withdrew his men and thus they were the last to leave the breastworks and the city of Petersburg.

The army retreated the balance of that night, but were briskly pursued the next morning by General Grant's forces of cavalry.

The rear of General Lee's army, held by General Gordon was soon engaged and he was forced to form his lines again and again and give battle.

These constant delays permitted Grant's infantry to overtake the retreating forces and engage them in battle.

The same thing occurred day after day, the confederate soldiers fighting as long as daylight lasted, and then retreating during the darkness, until the night of the 8th of April.

Some correspondence had passed between Generals Grant and Lee during those terrible days, and on the night of the 8th General Lee held his last council of war around his bivouac fire one mile from the little town of Appomatox Courthouse. In this meeting Generals Longstreet and Gordon, commanding the two wings, General Fitz Hugh Lee, commanding the cavalry, and General Pendleton, commanding the artillery, took part.

The question submitted to the council, was what should be done in view of Grant's demand for a surrender.

In order to ascertain what prospects there were for further resistance, reports were made of the sizes of the different commands.

It was ascertained that from losses in battle around Petersburg and on the march, and from the large numbers who had dropped on the wayside from exhaustion, the entire infantry of both Longstreet's and Gordon's commands numbered about 8,000 muskets. The cavalry under Fitz Hugh Lee, had also been reduced to the size of a few regiments, and the artillery was in like proportion.

It was estimated that General Grant had 150,000 men, and it was also known that a heavy federal force was across the confederates's front, ready to dispute every step of the passage toward Lynchburg, to which point the confederates were moving.

After a full discussion, it was determined that General Gordon, with his wing of the army, consisting of infantry, Fitz Hugh Lee's cavalry, and Colonel Tom Carter's artillery, should attempt to cut his way through the federal forces in front, and if he succeeded, General Longstreet was to follow, the wagon trains and the ammunition taking position between the two wings.

It was supposed that nothing but a heavy force of cavalry was in front.

Early on the morning of the 9th of April General Gordon moved on the federal breastworks thrown across his front, with General Fitz-Hugh Lee's cavalry on his right and Colonel Carter's artillery aiding in the assault.

Then followed a desperate charge, led by Gordon, which was not execelled in courage by any made during the war.

Sheridan's breastworks were carried and a portion of his artillery was captured and his forces were driven for half a mile or more in the rear of the position held by them when the battle commenced.

It was at this time that General Gordon sent to the rear to ask General Lee to send Longstreet's division forward.

The answer he receieved was that Longstreet's forces were heavily engaged with overwhelming numbers pressing from the rear. So that every step which General Gordon made forward increased the gap between his army and General Longstreet.

It was discovered also that upon General Gordon's flank heavy forces of federal infantry were moving to the assault.

It was at this moment that General Lee sent a flag of truce to General Grant notifying Generals Longstreet and Gordon of what had transpired.

The formal surrender soon followed. The two armies were withdrawn from the field and formed into separate lines and within half an hour general officers were appointed by Generals Lee and Grant to agree upon the terms of surrender and of parole.

By this time the truth of what was going on broke upon the apprehension of the entire confederate army and the bravest and the most stout hearted of these war-worn men wept like children.

When it came to the surrender of the battle flags which they had carried through so many fights it so taxed their sensibilities that they were utterly unmaned.

Many of the color bearers secretly tore the flags from the standards, throwing away the staffs and stuffing the old bullet-rent banners into their bosoms or boots to save them.

Those who took part in that dreadful ordeal claim that the conduct of the federal troops was generous and affecting. Their readiness to divide their rations and the evidences of their respect for a fallen foe made a profound impression on the confederate army.

The universal sympathy of the confederate army for General Lee, who, as the soldiers knew, was overwhelmed with grief, was manifest on all sides.

Such a scene was never witnessed before, and never will be again.

The army knew that it had no chance of victory, they knew they were starving and dying by hundreds of disease, brought on by privation, and yet, until the last moment they hoped to cut their way through Grant's lines, and once in the mountains of Tennessee could carry on a warfare for an indefinite time.

Twenty-five years ago today all these hopes had to be abandoned, and the confederacy fell with a mighty crash, the vibrations of which will go echoing down through the generations to come.

THE PIEDMONT EXPOSITION.

The President and Secretary Present a Card to the Public.

The coming exposition promises to be the most successful one ever held in Atlanta, every day bringing letters from parties who will come as exhibitors.

The directors are working hard and are full of hope.

Exposition Company to the Public.

We beg to inform our friends and the public generally that the annual exposition of this company will commence on Wednesday, October 15th, and close Saturday, November 1st. We shall make the exposition a credit to Atlanta, and bigger and better than any that have preceded it. The attendance, it is believed, will aggregate 400,000 souls. At a meeting of the board of directors of the company, held April 7th, it was unanimously decided to appeal to our public spirited citizens for money to aid in making the exposition the greatest success.

Many months are necessary for preparation of the show. The actual outlay before the opening of the exposition may reach the sum of $15,000.

As far as the material profits of the exposition is concerned, we desire to say that the money which comes from the public certainly goes for the benefit of the whole community. Vast crowds will pour in to witness the great show, and spend liberally to the advantage of all the business in the city. They bring not only their wives and children, but their sisters, their cousins and others. They not only disburse personally, but also buy larger bills of goods from wholesalers than at any other season.

Thus all interests benefit mutually; railroads profiting by increased carriage of travel and merchandise; every city business, great and small, reaping that advantage sure to result from great temporaryaddition to population.

Therefore, if our committee should call on our friends and patrons for material help to the coming great exposition, we sincerely hope that the appeal will not be in vain.

Contributions made direct to us, or to THE CONSTITUTION, or the Evening Journal in our favor, before calling, will be most gratefully received, and the name and amount of every contributor published in both of the city papers.

THE SOUTHERN TRAVELERS.

A Great Meeting to be Held Tonight to Consider Arrangements for the May Meeting.

The headquarters of the Atlanta division of the Southern Travelers' association have been open for a week, and Secretary Watts has received more than twenty-five applications for new membership, and more than that many contracts from hotels in the state granting concessions to the associations.

Tonight the committee of arrangements will submit a fully prepared programme for the consideration of the meeting Saturday night, when it will be presented.

On Saturday night the committee of arrangements meets, the finance committee will meet with the hotel and railroad committee to discuss the plan for the May meeting, with the May meeting committee.

A vast amount of enthusiasm has been awakened among the members of the association, the merchants and other sympathisers with the efforts of the travelers.

Saturday night will bring together a large and representative crowd of traveling men and those interested in the commercial welfare of the city. The May meeting is approaching, and what is to be done must be done quickly.

Captain Whack Bailey, Hanson Stockton, and other leading traveling men, report unusual interest in the success of the meeting, and that they find all their customers in hearty sympathy and accord with the grand demonstration that will show up the mercantile interests of the state in a manner never shown before.

POSTMASTER STONECIPHER.

He is Charged With Paying for Shoes in Postage Stamps.

The United States grand jury is stirring the embers of an old case.

Ex-Postmaster Stonecipher, of Mills, Ga., is having the charges against him aired. The accusation against the postmaster is that he bought shoes of H. S. Schwartz, a Chattanooga merchant, and paid for them in postage stamps, which stamps he never accounted for properly to the government.

This is the second time the case has been under investigation.

Yesterday Mr. Schwartz, the Chattannoga shoe dealer, arrived in Atlanta to testify in the case.

Mr. Schwartz says the shoes he sold to the postmaster at Millen for postage stamps were of only trifling value, just what amount he has forgotten, the transaction having taken place about three years ago.

He says he did not even know at the time that Stonecipher was a postmaster, but thought he simply sent stamps because he could not get money to send by mail.

The case will probably be disposed of today.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

An Interesting Meeting Held Last Evening.

The police commission held an interesting meeting last evening.

The meeting was held for the purpose of trying several cases, and of filling vacancies.

Patrolman R. L. Anderson was dropped from the force for failing to appear to answer the charges preferred against him.

Supernumerary Ammons was elected to serve as a regular patrolman in place of Anderson.

Supernumerary Long was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the discharge of Call Officer Walton.

Ex-Policeman J. E. Lynch was re-elected to the place of supernumerary No. 6, recently filled by Patrolman Ammous.

T. P. Carpenter was elected supernumerary No. 29, and J. R. Love was elected supernumerary No. 30.

After this the board adjourned until the next regular meeting.

CHEROKEE TRIBE.

They Elect Delegates to the Great Council.—Dr. Hawthorne to Preach.

Last night the Cherokee Tribe Red Men held a large and enthusiastic meeting at their wigwam, corner Alabama and Broad streets. Eleven new members were received, and the applications of ten others considered.

The tribe held an election for representatives to the great council of Georgia, which meets in Athens on May 13th, and elected E. W. Blue, J. T. Wiley, T. D. Bell, P. M. T. Medlin, J. W. Brooks.

Dr. J. B. Hawthorne has prepared and will deliver a special sermon to the Red Men, on Sunday next, at the First Baptist church.

All the Red Men of the city will turn out and march to the church from the wigwam of Cherokee Tribe.

STATE HOUSE GOSSIP.

Governor Gordon issued three warrants, yesterday, to the state treasurer, to reimburse him for the payment of part of the January interest on the state debt, and also part of the state indebtedness which has matured. The warrants were for $138,373.28 and $76,385 interest, and $47,875 of bonds.

Adjutant General Kell yesterday forwarded the following commissions to the officers of the McIntosh Light Dragoons, who were recently elected: R. H. Knox, captain; B. J. St. Clair, first lieutenant; Livingston Cannon, second lieutenant; R. D. Wiley, junior second lieutenant. General Kell also commissioned Dr. Newton A. Teague, of Augusta, as second lieutenant of the Oglethorpe Light Infantry, to succeed Lieutenant I. C. Vason, who resigned.

BADLY BURNED.

MRS. DR. O'BRIEN THE VICTIM OF A SERIOUS ACCIDENT LAST NIGHT.

Experimenting with a New Illuminating Fluid, the Lamp Explodes, and the Lady is the Sufferer.

Mrs. Dr. F. H. O'Brien was the victim of a serious accident at her home, No. 130 Loyd street, last night.

Dr. O'Brien has tried Atlanta gas until he has became disgusted with it, and of late has been trying the French Lighting Fluid in the lamps in his residence.

In the mean time he has been laid up with rheumatism, and only last night was able to get out for a walk,

He left the house shortly after 10 o'clock, and had not reached the corner when he was alarmed by screams from his residence. He rushed back and found his wife enveloped in flames and using every effort to extinguish the blaze that had overspread the carpet and was reaching toward the walls.

Rev. J. Wood Pogue, and Mr. Eckford, of Chamberlin & Johnson's, had heard her cries, and were working heroically to rescue the lady and save the house.

Mrs. O'Brien had gathered up a quantity of bed clothing and was trying to quench the fire, when the gentlemen came to her assistance.

In a few minutes the fire was out, and Mrs O'Brien was put to bed. Her arm and hand were badly burned from the tips of her fingers to half way to her elbow, the skin peeling off.

Mrs. O'Brien says that she had just finished hearing her children's lessons, and was reading, when she fell into a doze in her rocker.

An over-accumulation of the fluid caused it to encircle around the base of the burner and it caught fire.

When she awoke it was on account of the sound of the exploding lamp. The burning fluid spattered all over her arm, but regardless of the pain she endeavored to extinguish the blaze, and called for help.

Her wounds were dressed and she was resting easily at an early hour this morning. But it is possible that she may lose the use of her hand and arm from the effects of the burn.

THE LADIES' FAIR.

A Fair at the Centenial Hall Last Evening.

The fair for the benefit of St. Peter's and Paul's churches, opened under flattering auspices in Centennial hall last evening.

All the boothes are tastily arranged, and loaded down with useful and beautiful articles for sale and raffle.

For a first night, the crowd in attendance was large, and there is no doubt but that a handsome sum will be netted to the worthy object for which the fair has been inaugerated.

Already the ladies are busily engaged in raffling off presents, a bounteous responce being made to the salutations for chances by the many beautiful young ladies who are assisting in the fair work.

Early in the evening dancing was begun, lasting until midnight,

The ladies in charge of the fair are enthusiastic workers in all charitable undertakings, and are bending all their energies to making the present fair a grand success.

And they will certainly succeed. They deserve it.

A splendid restaurant, supplied with the season's dainties, occupies a portion of the hall. There regular meals will be served—and good ones, too.

A pleasanter evening could hardly be spent that by a visit to the ladies' fair. Go up and enjoy yourself this evening, and at the same time give your aid to a most worthy cause.

The Dark Secret.

"A Dark Secret" is without an exception the most intensely thrilling and exciting melodrama ever presented in Atlanta, and those who fail to see this show will miss something more than the ordinary stage drama. This company carries, with but few exceptions, the handsomst stage settings ever brought to this city. The old church at Henley, on the Thames, is a fine piece of stage mechanism. The drawing scene is one that is calculated to bring interest to the highest point. The death struggle and the rain storm are also good features. The last act is probably the most interesting. The steam launch, "Dark Secret," built expressly for this company, is brought into use, and is handled with great dexterity while the "Dark Secret" is plying the Thames. Numerous canoes are seen in the distance, giving a grand effect. The picture represents a jolly crowd, assembled to witness the sculling race between Edward Hanlan and Stephens, and of course Hanlan wins.

The Matter Settled.

The case of Mr. L. McVickers, reported in yesterday's paper, was calculated to do Mr. McVickers and his business some harm. It was only a family misunderstanding, and Mr. McVickers was not guilty of any act that would be recognized as a crime in the courts of law. His wife was solicitous about him, and made some hasty remarks, which were the cause of all the trouble. All is quiet and serene in the family now, and the matter will never appear in the courts.

She Dropped Dead.

Tuesday a negro woman by the name of O'Bryan, from Americus; went out on Maple street to look at some real estate.

Suddenly she felt faint, and went into the house of a friend and called for camphor.

She began sinking, and in a few minutes was dead. The doctors who were called, reported it a case of heart disease.

The Beauty of Health.

How many women with regular features that might be beautiful, are not, and instead of awakening our admiration only arouse our pity. Their hollow eyes and sunken cheeks and sallow skin haunt our memory. Alas! an invalid wife or mother or sister fills the house with gloom and sadness, and an otherwise happy fireside is shadowed with a pall of regret. Blessed be the physician who has invented a remedy with power to strengthen the female organization, that regulates the delicate functions of feminine life, that relieves those bearing-down pains, that renews the appetite, that perfects digestion, that brightens the eyes and beautifies the complexion with the glow of health. Such a remedy is Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla. It is woman's best friend for counteracting the evils that afflict her sex. Thousands of ladies owe their beauty to a use of this incomparable alterative. Demand it of your druggist. Take no other.—Paris News

DISCUSSING THE DRILL.

The Boys Who Were Left Behind Have Their Thoughts on Jacksonville.

Last night the armory of the Atlanta Rifles wore quite an animated aspect for the home of an absent military company.

Most all the members who were left behind gathered to discuss the probabilities of the great contest of today, and to hear the latest as to the condition of the gallant soldier boys and their position in the contest.

The boys were all in high spirits and expressed the utmost confidence in the outcome.

But there was one tring that cast somewhat of a damper on the enthusiasm of the talkers. This was the illness of Mark Hightower, the splendid right guide of the company.

Sergeant Hightower was too ill to march to the depot with the drill squad Monday evening, and there is serious doubt as to his being able to enter the contest today. He went with the company, however, and if it is possible will appear at the right of the Rifles this afternoon. Several telegrams were received during the evening, but from all accounts Sergeant Hightower was still in a doubtful condition. He is game though, like all Rifles, and will go into the contest if he has a ghost of a showing. The train which carried the Rifles reached Jacksonville six hours before that bearing the Guard, which was behind time.

Places in the drill were to have been drawn for yesterday, but a telegram received at the Rifles' armory states that the drawing has been postponed until today, probably early this morning.

Several telegrams from members of the Guard in Jacksonville were also received at the Guard armory. Everything with the company went well, and the boys met many old friends there, their entertainers of a year ago.

Today the friends of both companies will keep the wires between here and Jacksonville warm with messages of inquiry and assurance.

Atlanta wishes luck to both the gallant companies.

If every lamp in the United States had a "pearl-top" chimney, the breaking of chimneys would almost cease. There would still be carelessness, accidents. But, if every lamp had a "pearl-top" chimney, the change would be so great that the sale of other sorts would instantly stop. Macbeth & Co., Pittsburgh, might possibly make enough "pearl-tops" to keep the country supplied.

The Honest Doctor.

"Yes, my friend, I have been practicing my profession of medicine for over thirty years, and have studied this matter of blood disease closely, and to-day I am frank to say that Swift's Specific is the only remedy which I have ever found for this hydra-headed monster called contagious blood poison, and its consequences. It seems to eliminate the poison from the system entirely, and at the same time builds up the vital forces of the patient, causes good appetite and digestion and tones up the whole system. I have long ago discarded the old potash and mercury and sarsaparilla mixtures, which only substitute one disease for another, and sooner or later wreck the health of the sick person."

Have used S. S. S. in treatment of blood taint, with remarkable success.

STATE OF GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—To the superior court of said county. The petition of G. V. Gress, J. L. Hamilton, Jr., J. W. Branning, George S. May and C. J. Hayden, shows that for the purpose of pecuniary gain, they have associated themselves under the name of "Georgia Timberland Improvement Company," and that they desire for themselves, their associates, successors and assigns, to become incorporated by and under that name, and in such corporate name and capacity to conduct business. That the principal business they propose to carry on is the purchase and sale or lease of lands and timber, the improvement of property in anyway they may desire, including the construction of sewers, drains, gas, electric or waterwerks or any other structures or appliances by which realty may be improved; the ownership or control and operation of saw mills, the manufacture and disposition of lumber of every description and of any article or thing into which it enters or may be used; the erection of bridges, buildings, railroads or other structures composed wholly or in part of wood, including the right to contract for and do the work of building and equipping any railroad in whole or in part, or to do a commission business in structural materials of any sort; the purchase and sale of bonds, notes or other evidences of indebtedness, including the right to issue bonds or other evidences of indebtedness and secure the payment of the same by mortgage, deed of trust or orther legal security, and generally to do all things necessary or proper to be done by construction or improvement companies.

Their principal place of business will be in the city of Atlanta in said county, but they desire the privilege of establishing agencies or other places of business as they may see proper. The amount of capital to be employed by them will be five hundred thousand dollars, divided into shares of one hundred dollars each, but they desire the privilege of commencing business when ten per cent of that amount shall have been subscribed and paid in, and of increasing their capital, as they may see fit, to an amount not exceeding two million dollars.

The time for which they desire to be incorporated is twenty years, with the privilege of renewal at the expiration of that period.

They therefore pray that they, their associates, successors and assigns may be incorporated by and under the name of "Georgia Timberland Improvement Company," for the period aforesaid, with all the rights, powers and privileges set forth and such others as may be authorized by law.

JIM M'COY SET FREE.

A MAN THAT CARRIES A RABBIT-FOOT WITH HIM IN COURT.

His Usual Luck was with Him Yesterday—The History of the Last Murder Trial and His Subsequent Troubles.

The luckiest man that ever stood a trial in the courts of Georgia was acquitted yesterday. That man is James R. McCoy, of Cherokee county.

The charge of which he was acquitted was "resisting an officer of the United States in the discharge of his duty."

The story of this case is a sequel of the famous Kellett murder of December, 1883.

THE STORY.

Deputy Marshal William D. Kellett was killed in Walker county, at the corner of three states—Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee.

He had in charge at the time a revenue prisoner named Andy Young. Kellett was on horseback and his prisoner afoot, going to Summerville.

About fifteen miles from Summerville, in the heart of a wild and sparsely settled country, he came to a creek known as Snake Dam creek. At the ford there was a foot-log for pedestrians, and the prisoner started across this, while Kellett rode his horse into the water beside him.

Suddenly there was a rifle shot from a clump of bushes in the rear and Kellett threw up his hands, reeled, and fell from his horse into the water.

The horse was frightened and ran off, leaving the body of Kellett, face downward, in the shallow water.

The prisoner stopped on the foot-log, and two men stepped from behind their shelter, one of them with a smoking rifle in his hand.

They made Young swear, on his knees and with threats of death for disobedience, that he would never tell what he had seen.

THE REWARD OFFERED.

Rewards aggregating $750 were offered for the arrest and conviction of the murderer.

Suspicion pointed to McCoy.

Young was found, and finally divulged the whole thing.

The man with the smoking rifle, and the one that made him swear on his knees, Young identified as Jim McCoy.

Furthermore, McCoy had sworn to kill Kellett.

The two had had a personal difficulty about six years before Kellett was killed, and McCoy was shot.

He had the bullet cut out carefully, and kept it afterwards in his pocket.

"That's the bullet Bill Kellett hit me with," he was accustomed to say, "and I'll kill him with that same bullet. I'll do it if I hang for it. You mark what I say—I'll kill him with that same bullet."

People who know him say that McCoy never forgets an injury, and means what he says.

McCoy's own conduct convicted him. He hid out, evading all attempts at arrest, and these were many. By authority from Washington $300 or $400 was spent in trying to capture him, but from December to February without effect.

THE CAPTURE.

Finally Marshal Nelms, Deputies M. W. Scott, Ira C. Campbell, H. C. Garrison, J. D. Wilkerson, David Haines, and T.W. Kellogg, with Perry Chisolm, Welborne Colquitt, and W. H. Chapman, of the revenue department, captured him.

It was expected that the whole McCoy family would fight for him and the posse was large for that reason.

At the house the officers halted, one or two of them walking towards an outhouse a few yards away, while the others surround the main house.

Deputy Marshal Campbell was the first to reach the outhouse. There were two men there, and they started to run as he came up. They were Jim McCoy and Jim Wiley.

The deputy closed with McCoy before the latter could get out, but not in time to prevent his drawing his pistol and in the struggle the deputy was shot through the hand.

McCoy was captured, but Wiley, the man that Young said was with McCoy when Kellett was assassinated, escaped.

UNDER SENTENCE OF DEATH.

McCoy was tried before Judge Branham for murder, convicted and sentenced to be hung.

He was brought to Fulton county jail pending a motion for new trial.

His attorney was Hon. W. C. Glenn, of Whitfield, through whose untiring efforts the new trial was finally obtained.

This time the case was tried before Judge Fain, and McCoy was acquitted. It was one of the greatest legal victories ever gained in the state, and one of which Mr. Glenn is justly very proud.

MORE STATE CASES.

McCoy had been under sentence of death nearly twelve months.

As soon as he was acquitted in Walker county he was immediately rearrested upon two warrants sworn out in Cherokee.

One charged him with attempted rape, and the other with carrying concealed weapons.

Of these, one after the other, he was acquitted.

THEN THIS CASE.

Then this last case came on for resisting Deputy Campbell in the discharge of his duty—the time Campbell was shot.

And again, yesterday, McCoy was acquitted.

Hon. W. C. Glenn, who was living in Dalton when McCoy was tried in Walker and has since moved to Atlanta, represented McCoy yesterday before Judge Newman.

The acquittal was secured upon a technical flaw in the warrants which the deputies carried when McCoy was captured.

This made the warrant illegal—in that no offense was charged—and on this ground McCoy was acquitted yesterday.

THE OTHER MURDER CASE.

About eight or ten years ago McCoy was tried in Bartow county for the murder of a negro.

He was acquitted.

Besides these cases there have been a number made against him for violations of the revenue law.

But yesterday afternoon he stepped out of the court room a free man, no charge against him.

JOHN COFFEE CONGRATULATES HIM.

One of the most deeply interested spectators in court yesterday was John Coffee.

The two men are close friends, and Coffee was the first man to congratulate McCoy on his acquittal. The two walked out of court and down Decatur street arm in arm.

Coffee will be remembered as the man recently acquitted of the murder of Deputy Marshal Merritt, and his case and that of McCoy are closely parallel.

It was a deputy marshal in each case, both men being assassinated; both McCoy and Coffee evaded arrest with heavy rewards over them, and both were captured firing their pistols and defying arrest.

Both men were tried twice for murder, the second trial in each case resulting in acquittal.

THE TWO JUDGES.

While McCoy has been miraculously lucky in securing acquittals, one after another, it seems that a peculiar ill-fortune has attended others interested.

Judge Branham's conduct in the case is said to have aroused some unlooked-for opposition to his re-election, and this was a factor in defeating him in one of the closest elections ever held in the legislature.

Judge Fain, on the other hand, acquitted McCoy, and his conduct of the case aroused opposition from the other side, and this contributed largely towards his defeat for re-election.

The feeling aroused in each case was purely personal, but was very bitter.

And after all—McCoy is a free man.

WANTS HIS CHILD.

Judge Clarke is Asked to Issue a Habeas Corpus Writ.

Nat A. Blair yesterday filed a petition in the superior court before Judge Marshall J. Clarke, praying a writ of habeas corpus to secure possession of his daughter, a two and a half year old child.

Judge Clarke, upon hearing the petition, set April 12th, at nine o'clock, as the time when the body of the child should be produced before him in court, to be disposed of as the best interests of the little one should dictate in accordance with law.

The petition alleges that the child, whose name is Mary Eva Blair is in the possession of her mother, the petitioner's wife, who secured control of her yesterday by force and through the intervention of a police officer.

Further, it is averred that the child's mother, Mrs. Minnie Blair, had abandoned the petitioner and is altogether an unfit person in whom to confide the custody of the child. The husband also states that his wife frequently mistreated the little girl while he lived with her, and that her abandonment of him is wholly without cause or justification.

In conclusion he prays that the child be given into his care, and also that a writ of habeas corpus be issued to require Mrs. Minnie Blair to produce her in court.

NEW UNIFORMS.

The Governor's Horse Guards will Order New Clothes.

At a meeting held Monday night the Governor's Horse Guards decided upon purchasing a new uniform.

Fifteen hundred dollars of the company's funds were set aside for that purpose, and a committee was also appointed to take the necessary steps towards having the order filled at the shortest possicle time.

The precise style has not been determined, but it goes without saying that the new uniform will be the handsomest that can be had.

Besides dress coats and helmets, a new outfit of foraging caps will also be ordered. White duck breeches may also be added, but as yet this has not been agreed upon.

The Horse Guards will be equipped with their handsome new uniforms in time for the Augusta encampment. The orders will be given without delay.

Monday night the company held the first of a series of regular drills on Capitol square, getting in good trim for the Memorial Day procession, when a big turnout will be made.

Both mounted and dismounted movements were executed. Several more practice drills will be made before the 26th.

The Ruins of Louisville.

Yesterday THE CONSTITUTION received from Mrs. Conden, of Louisville, a large collection of photographic views of the ruins of Louisville. These views are gotten up in a very artistic style and reflect great credit upon the artist.

'Tis sad to see a woman growing old before her time
All broken down and hopeless when life should hold its prime;
She feels herself a burden when a blessing she should be,
And longs for death to bring her release from misery.

If these poor, discouraged women who suffer from diseases peculiar to women could only know that health could be regained by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, how eagerly they would hasten to avail themselves of it. They ought to know it, and try it. Every woman who is still healthy ought to be told about the wonderful virtue in this medicine, and understand that it is a safeguard against the terrible diseases common to her sex. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction or money paid for it will be refunded.

Cleanse the liver, stomach, bowels and whole system by using Dr. Pierce's Pellets.

The City's Mecca.

Residents along the dummy car lines leading to Grant park have been greatly impressed with the increasing streams of travel from all parts of the city to this life giving place. The developments of the park have been marvelous during the last few years, until now there is no more attractive place to be found anywhere. Its picturesque beauty and artistic loveliness has been a subject of remark by strangers from all parts of this country and from Europe. It is a real treat to see how thoroughly its free expanse is enjoyed by the multitudes who daily visit there.

Visitors can not refrain from realizing a sense of envy for the luxury constantly enjoyed by the residents in the immediate vicinity of the park.

Now that rapid transit is already an established fact, extensive improvements will unquestionably be rapidly made in that vicinity. With the already crowded condition of the city and its rapidly increasing population, property in that vicinity has sprung into great demand, and will greatly enhance in value as attention is directed to it. The thoughtful home seeker and the prudent investor will not fail to attend the auction sale of ninety-five beautiful building lots at the park, to be sold for what they will bring, on Tuesday the 22d instant, by Krouse & Welch and H. L. Wilson.

Notice by the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta of the Holding of an Electton to Determine the Question Whether Bonds shall be Issued by said City.
WHEREAS, THE MAYOR AND GENERAL Council of the City of Atlanta desire to issue two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) of bonds of said City, for the purpose of increasing the water supply, of said city, and desire also to issue one hundred thousand dollars ($100,000) in bonds, for the purpose of paying the city's proportion of the expense of the construction of sewers in said city, and the assent of the qualified voters of said city being necessary thereto.
Therefore, be it ordained by the Mayor and General Council aforesaid, that in accordance with the Constitution and Laws of said State, an election shall be held on the twenty-third (23d) day of April, 1890, to determine the question whether said water bonds and sewer bonds, or either series of said proposed bonds, shall be issued by said city, and that notice to the people (qualified voters of said city), be published in THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, the paper in which the Sheriff's advertisement of said county are published, and also in The Atlanta Evening Journal, for the space of thirty days next preceding the day of said election as provided by law, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of four per cent. (4 per cent per annum, and to run not exceeding thirty years from the date thereof, the interest to be paid semi-annually, on the first days of January and July of each year, and the principals of said bonds to be fully paid off within thirty years from the date of issuance thereof.
If the issue of said water bonds and sewer bonds, or either of such series of bonds, is voted by the requisite two-thirds of the qualified voters of said city, then, and before the proposed debt is incurred, an ordinance or ordinances shall be passed providing for the issue and sale thereof, and making provision at the same time for the assessment and collection of annual taxes sufficient in amount to pay the principal and interest of said debt within thirty years from the date of incurring said indebtedness.
But this shall not operate to increase the annual tax on real estate or personal property beyond the charter rate of one and one-half (1½) per centum per annum.
At said election, the voters shall have printed or written on their ballots "For Water Bonds," or "Against Water Bonds," and shall also have printed or written on their ballots "For Sewer Bonds" or "Against Sewer Bonds." And each voter may on the same ballot for or against either water bonds or sewer bonds, or for the one and against the other, or for both or against both, or may vote with reference to the one and not vote as to the other, as he may desire.
Said election shall be held as municipal elections in this city are held, and conducted in like manner, and in accordance with sections 506 1 to 506 M., inclusive, of the code of the state of Georgia.
I certify that the foregoing preamble and ordinance were adopted by the mayor and council of the city of Atlanta on March 17, 1890, and concurred in by the aldermanic board on the same day, and approved by the mayor of said city on March 18, 1890.

48 PETERS PARK LOTS FOR SALE 48

APRIL 15, AT 3 O'CLOCK, UPON THE PREMISES, on North avenue, Cherry and Plum streets. The Peters Park property has been in demand for the last twenty years. The Technological school, one of the grandest state institutions in Georgia, fronts this property on Cherry street. The Union street cars on North avenue and the proposed electric line on Luckie street, makes these lots exceedingly valuable for residences. The locality is delightful with no bad surroundings. Call at my office for plat, examine every lot, look at the present improvements and see the big money already expended by the state in that magnificent Technological building, and you are bound to admit that this is the place to put your money, either for a home or an investment. Prices are certain to double up for years to come. The western part of Atlanta is growing in population rapidly. Houses are going up in every direction, manufactories are being built all along the different railroads. Now is certainly the time to buy. ON HIS MUSCLE.

PATROLMAN BOB ANDERSON ATTACKS AND BEATS A WITNESS.

The Grand Sequel of the Carroll County Case Occurs in the Shape of an Assault Upon Mr. Fitts by Policeman Anderson.

A terrible assault upon Mr. A. B. Fitts, editor of the Carroll County Times, and special correspondent of THE CONSTITUTION, was made in the corridor near Hon. John Clay Smith's office yesterday.

The fight occurred a few minutes after 2 o'clock, and was the result of the various reports which have come from Carrollton regarding the conduct of Patrolman Anderson, near that town, when Mr. Cannon was handcuffed by Anderson, out of which a big sensation ensued.

Mr. Fitts, as correspondent of THE CONSTITUTION, wrote the first account of the affair; but after Anderson went to Carroll county and settled the case, Mr. Fitts agreed to modify his original statements in regard to the affair, relying on Anderson's explanation of the case.

Mr. Fitts did all that he could to straighten out the matter, and came to the city yesterday with the intention of using every effort in his power to make Anderson's vindication still clearer.

THEY MET AT THE STATIONHOUSE

and there was apparently no ill feeling between them. Anderson asked Mr. Fitts if Jim Hewitt, another witness, was in the city. Mr. Fitts said that he supposed Hewitt would come in on the 2 o'clock train.

The two walked out together as far as the Metropolitan hotel. While they were standing on the corner talking, another gentleman cognizant of the facts in the case, joined them. Mr. Fitts then excused himself, saying that he was going to THE CONSTITUTION office and do all he could to vindicate himself and to explain matters, but would be on hand at the meeting of the police commisssoners as a witness.

Anderson proposed that he and Mr. Fitts should go the office of Mr. John Clay Smith, Anderson's attorney, and discuss the matter.

THE ASSAULT.

They went to Mr. Smith's office, over Lowry's bank, on Alabama street; but there was nobody in.

Mr. Eitts says that Anderson turned to him, after looking around, and said:

"Mr. Fstts, you are the man that wrote me up in THE CONSTITUTION"—and followed the remark up with a terrible blow on the mouth.

Mr. Fitts staggered backward.

Anderson had caught his right hand and held it in a vise-like grip, and followed his first blow with a number of others.

Mr. Fitts is no match for Anderson in physical strength, and was taken by surprise.

He had nothing with which to defend himself, and Anderson had it all his own way, punishing his victim as much as he desired. When Anderson had satisfied himself he released Mr. Fitts, and ran down stairs as fast as he could.

People on the street saw Anderson, as he fled, and shortly afterwards Mr. Fitts came out covered with blood and scarcely able to speak.

A sensation was created by the appearance of the two men, and the wildest sort of rumors followed.

Mr. Fitts went to the stationhouse and reported the case, and the police force was at once put on notice, but it was too late. He then went to Palmer's drug store and had his wounds dressed.

Anderson was gone.

The evening watch was notified, but with no result, as Anderson had made good his escape.

His trial on the charges from Carroll county was set for last night, before the police commission, at 7:30 o'clock, but he failed to appear, and the case was tried on its merits.

HE WAS DISCHARGED

by a unanimous vote of the board, after a thorough consideration of the two cases.

The board did not put so much stress on the first case, which Anderson had shown was due altogether to a little misunderstanding of a joke, as it did on his assault on a man who had come to the city, and come with the most pacific and generous incentives.

The board expressed a regret that he should have allowed himself to become involved in the affair, but there was no alternative left but to drop his name from the roll, after all that had passed.

Anderson has been on the police force for five years, and has always been considered a faithful and efficient officer.

Atlanta and Florida Railroad.

We are now offering for sale Atlanta and Florida railroad, first mortgage, 6 per cent, fifty year, gold bonds.

The road is one hundred and five miles in length, extending from Atlanta to Fort Valley, and has an issue of only $8,000 per mile, which is very small for a standard road, complete in every respect.

The road has cost one-half a million more money than the amount of the bonded indedtedness.

We represent these bonds as being perfectly safe, and in our opinon, no better or safer investment can be made in the way of bonds, by those who are satisfied with 6 per cent.

We have sold eighty-eight of them in this community, of $1,000 each, and are now offering them at par and interest.

Those wishing to invest can get further information by calling on the undersigned.

CUTICURA REMEDIES.

A Scrofulous Child

Running sores all over his body. Head a solid scab discharging offensive matter. Bones affected and pieces discharged. Could not get up if he fell down. Could not move in bed having no use of his hands. One of the most remarkable among the thousands o cures made by the Cuticura Remedies. N. B.—This cure was made May 9, 1885, and has remained permanent to date, Feb. 7, 1890.

Cured by Cuticura

When six months old, the left hand of our little grandchild began to swell, and had every appearance of a large boil. We poulticed it, but all to no purpose. About five months after it became a running sore. Soon other sores formed. He then had two of them on each hand, and as his bloodbecame more and more impure, it took less time for them to break out. A sore came on the chin, beneath the under lip, which was very offensive. His head was one solid scab, discharging a great deal. This was his condition at twenty-two months old, when I undertook the care of him, his mother having died when he was a little more than a year old, of consumption (scrofula, of course). He could walk a little, but could not get up if he fell down, and could not move when in bed, having no use of his hands. I immediately commenced with the CUTICURA REMEDIES, using all freely. One sore after another healed, a bony matter forming in each one of these five deep ones just before healing, which would finally grow loose and were taken out; then they would heal rapidly. One of those ugly bone formations I preserved. After taking a dozen and a half bottles he was completely cured, and is now, at the age of six years, a strong and healthy child

Your letter of inquiry in regard to the permanency of the cure (by the CUTICURA REMEDIES), of my little grandson, was duly received, and I am happy to say he remains perfectly well, and has no sores and no signs of scrofula. If he gets a cut or bruise it heals readily and the child is well.

Cuticura Remedies.

The above is one of the most gratifying of the thousands of cures made by the CUTICURA REMEDIES, and is conclusive evidence that they not only cure the worst cases, but cure them for all time. Hence it is not surprising that mothers and children bless the CUTICURA REMEDIES.

CUTICURA, the great skin cure, instantly allays the most agonizing itching, burning, and inflammation, clears the skin and scalp of crusts and scales, heals ulcers and sores, and restores the hair. CUTICURA SOAP, the greatest of skin purifiers and beautifiers, is indespensable in treating skin diseases and baby humors. It produces the whitest, clearest skin and softest hands, free from pimples, spot or blemish. CUTICURA RESOLVENT, the new blood and skin purifier and greatest of humor remedies, cleanses the blood of impurities and poisonous elements, and thus removes the cause. Hence the CUTICURA REMEDIES cure every species of torturing, humiliating, itching, burning, scaly, and pimply diseases of the skin, scalp, and blood, with loss of hair, and all humors, blotches, eruptions, sores, scales, and crusts, whether simple, scrofulous or hereditary, when physicians and all other remedies fail.

Sold everywhere. Price, CUTICURA, 50c.; SOAP, 25c.; RESOLVENT, $1. Prepared by the POTTER DRUG AND CHEMICAL CORPORATION, Boston.

Send for "How to Cure Skin Diseases," 64 pages, 50 illustrations, and 100 testimonials, with full directions for home treatment.

THE SALE OF 40 LOTS

—ON—

Pryor, Windsor and Cooper Sts.

—AND—

TENNESSEE AVENUE

Has been changed from TUESDAY, the 15th, to MONDAY, the 14th.

These lots are peculiarly located—just completely built up all around them. They lay immediately in front of the shops, and extend through to Pryor street.

The demand for lots in this locality has been greater than any other section of Atlanta, and, up to now, not a lot could be had; but NEXT MONDAY you can make your selection!

We have made a wide avenue straight from the shops to Pryor street, and called it Tennessee avenue.

THE DUMMY LINE

passes in front of some of these lots, and reasonably near them all, and a new line is granted the right-of-way from Whitehall street to the railroad shops.

With the demand for homes

CITY PROPERTY.

WE HAVE THREE VERY DESIRABLE places on West Peachtree, one improved, and two vacant corner lots.

Have some of the most beautiful lots in grove fronting east on Jackson street, with belgian block, sewage, water and gas, to be placed this summer, that are in the city. We say this deliberately, with a clear conscience. These lots are only offered to those who contemplate building.

We have two beautiful lots on Angier avenue, 60 feet front, 210 feet, close to the Boulevard, at the low price of $1,000. These will do to buy and hold for six months, with an assurance of a profit.

We have a beautiful 5-room cottage on the Boulevard, with water, sewage, gas; large lot. From it you have a beautiful view of the city; price $3,500. If you want to buy, come and see. If you want to sell, be sure and give us a call. With three horses and buggies at our command, we can readily and willingly show anything on our list.

FOR SALE 10 ACRES

on Central railroad, just beyond Anthony Murphey's. On it are a beautiful cottage and barn. The acreage highly fertilized and in a high state of cultivation; price $10,000.

6 acres on Central railroad 2½ miles from the city with 10-room house and store. All comparatively new, with the contemplated hourly trains to be placed within the next thirty or forty days—and these trains to be permanent from Hapeville to the city, makes this property very desirable; price only $8,000.

4 acres right at Ponce deLeon spring in a beautiful grove, with an 8-room house; price $3,500.

We have other acreage property very desirable in almost any locality.

A PLEA FOR JUSTICE

MADE BY THE MELON GROWERS OF SOUTHWEST GEORGIA.

The Savannah, Florida and Western Railroad Company Cited to Appear Before the Railroad Commission.

QUITMAN, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—In order that melon-growers get their melons to market promptly, it is necessary for them to have between stations turnouts, at which they may load the sidetracked car. The practice of the Savannah, Florida and Western railway in the matter of charging or not charging for the use of these turnouts has not been uniform. To the mind of a plain, straightforward, wayfaring man, who digs his living out of the ground, there is, apparently, unjust discrimination.

WHERE DISCRIMINATION IS PRACTICED.

At 183, 183½ and 184 there are sidings. For those at 183 and 184 melon-growers were required to furnish the crossties and do the grading, and they are also required to keep them in repair. These same farmers that have done this work are charged for the use of these turnouts, and the railroad company itself uses them whenever it chooses to do so.

Now, 183½ is a free siding; farmers that load there are not required to pay for doing so, nor are they required to keep in repair.

This state of affairs exists from Valdosta to Albany—some turnouts being free, and others not free.

THE QUESTION TO BE TESTED.

The fairness of the thing does not commend itself to the honest, sturdy farmers of Brooks county. Mr. Charles H. Remington, a young, intelligent and prosperous farmer and melon-grower of the county has taken teps looking to righting the wrong. He has secured affidavits from those that have been unjustly treated in this respect, and has forwarded them to the railroad commission; and the commission, in turn, has cited the Savannah, Florida and Western railway to appear before it next Tuesday to answer the charge of unjust discrimination.

It is earnestly to be hoped that the railroad authorities will voluntarily make their practice in this matter uniform, or should they not do so, the commission will compel them to mete out justice to all parties.

A SCHOOL TEACHER'S WILL

In Which He Remembers His Professional Associates.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 8.—[Special.]—The will of the late Professor G. B. Elliott, principal of Tarbox school, who died last week, was probated today. Professor Elliott left considerable property in stocks and bonds. Professor Elliott first directs his executors to purchase $3,000 of securities of the city of Nashville, and put said securities into the hands of the Nashville Library association, a corporation organized for the benefit of the white teachers of the public schools of Nashville, to be used in subscribing for and purchasing magazines and periodicals including those especially devoted to school work. He directs his executors to set aside $500, the income of which shall be used in furnishing a medal to be awarded to the member of the graduating class of the Nashville public schools who shall attain the highest rank in general scholarship. He also directs that $10 be appropriated annually for a medal to be awarded the pupil in the last three grades taught in the Tarbox school, who shall have attained the highest rank in general scholarship. There are a number of small bequests, the bulk of the property goes to relatives.

Thrown From the Buggy.

CORNELIA, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—One of the most excitable incidents in the way of a runaway occurred just ontside the city limits here on yesterday evening. As Mr. J. T. Smith, a salesman representing John Silvey & Co., of Atlanta, and Mr. J. B. Hobson, our clever liveryman, were returning from Hollingsworth. About one mile from here is quite a long hill, and just as they started down it their horses became excited and began to kick and run. The lines broke and Mr. Hobson was thrown out on one side, and Mr. Smith kicked out on the other. Both received very hard falls, causing much pain. The hack was carried fifty yards, when the pole was broken. The horses ran about fifty yards farther when one of them fell and bled to death. Both Mr. Smith and Mr. Hobson were able to walk to town.

The Preacher Whipped Again.

NEW HOPE, Ark., April 8.—[Special.]—The Mormon preacher, who received a severe whipping a few miles west of this place last week, returned to Center Point, the county site, to get warrants for the arrest of the parties that administered the lash. He was informed that it would be necessary for him to give bond before proceeding further, so the preacher left town in hunt of bondsmen. While he was out he was re-captured and a double dose of black hickory administered, and he skipped for parts unknown. It is thought that he is thoroughly convinced. The people of this community seem determined to nip Mormonism in the bud here.

Confessed to a Serious Crime.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—[Special.]—At Bessemer this morning Sam Johnson, colored, was arrested on the charge of vagrancy, and taken before a magistrate for trial. The evidence against him was conclusive, but before passing sentence the magistrate asked the prisoner if he had anything to say. Johnson arose and confessed that he had murdered a white man near Tuskeegee, Macon county, Ala., five years ago. After this confession he was placed in the county jail here until the authorities of Macon county can be heard from.

A Death Warrant Issued.

RALEIGH, N. C., April 8.—[Special.]—Governor Fowle today issued a death warrant for the execution of Steve Jacobs, at Rumberton, Robeson county, May 8th. Jacobs is a Croaton Indian, and committed the horrible double murder of two women some months ago. The governor also offered a reward of $200 for the capture of Franklin Broadway, a white man, who, last week, in Davidson county, knocked down and then shot Lee Craver, whom he had induced to leave his house under pretense that he wished to purchase cattle.

LeCaron Turns Out His Beard.

DUBLIN, April 8.—The Freeman's Journal says that Major LeCaron, who become notorious because of the testimony given by him for the Times before the Parnell commission, is now living in a suburb of London.

He has grown a grey beard and mustache, which have so completely changed his appearance that his most intimate friends could not recognize him. The Journal also says that he has been promised a further government engagement in Australia.

A Kentucky Tragedy.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8.—Near Mount Sterling yesterday, Will Barnes and Kelly Day were killed by Albian Barnes and George Stephens. The Barnses were cousins and the shooting grew out of an old feud. Day was a bystander without any other share in the quarrel. Albian Barnes is thought to be fatally wounded.

Will Go Together.

ELMIRA, N. Y., April 8.—Three hundred delegates, representing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, firemen and brakemen and switchmen, met here today, and with a few members of the new order of railway conductors, discussed and adopted a scheme of federation between all organizations of trainmen in the United States.

My wife for several years had been an invalid and slowly grew worse. I tried doctors, but their skill failed. A neighbor recommended Dr. Bull's Sarsaparilla and her health began to mend at once. She weighs fifteen pounds more than she did four months ago, and feels quite strong and well.—G. W. Strain, Canton, O.

If you want comfort, courteous treatment and cleanliness, stop at the Sturtevant House when in New York city, and you will be satisfied. Rates reasonable. 29th street and Broadway.

THEY PLAYED ON THE FRENCH HORN

And a Wrong Report Was Circulated About Them.

NORFOLK, Va., April 8.—The choirmaster of Granby street Methodist Episcopal church, of this city, one of the largest and wealthiest churches of the south, arranged an elaborate musical programme for last Sunday's Easter services. In addition to the regular choir, instruments, comprising violins, violas, flutes, French horns and a cornet—in all eleven pieces—were introduced in the musical exercises. This elaborate musical programme was made the basis of a special dispatch to the Baltimore and New York newspapers Sunday morning, which were republished here by local newspapers. In these dispatches it was stated that a rivalry existed between Granby Street church, Rev. Dr. W. V. Tudor, pastor, and Cumberland Street M. E. church, of which Rev. W. G. Starr is pastor. Both of these gentlemen are ministers of great popularity and conspicuous eloquence. It was also stated, in substance, that Dr. Tudor, finding that his congregation was falling off because of Dr. Starr's brilliant sermons, had instructed his choirmaster to make his music more attractive, and that this was the occasion of the elaborate musical programmes for Easter Sunday. The pulication here of this church gossip has created a sensation and aroused great indignation among members of the Granby Street church, who are devoted to their pastor. Both Dr. Tudor and Dr. Starr depreciate the suggestion of any feeling of rivalry between themselves or churches, and the official board of Granby Street church has passed resolutions denouncing the story, assuming responsibility for the extra music, and stating that the music on the occasion referred to was nothing of an unusual order, but just such as had been arranged for similar former occasions.

AN ATLANTIAN IN MARSHALLVILLE.

Professor Charles Lane Captures a Whole Community.

MARSHALLVILLE, Ga., April 8.—[Special.]—Georgia is said to be noted both for the number of her men who can stand on their feet and "talk," as well as for the broad vein of humor which characterizes their efforts. Measured by this standard, Professor Charles Lane, of the Technological institute, is in the "forefront" of typical Georgians. His humor is deeply contagious, his wit ready, and his delivery suited to his sentiments; but beyond this, his critical analysis and philosophical treatment of portions of the subject, give evidence of profound research. The large audience which filled the ample lecture room of the high school building, with one accord, voted: "It is the most entertaining lecture we have ever heard." The Marshallville Quintette club furnished the music for the occasion. Enough said.

The Coalburg Explosion.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., April 8.—[Special.]—The official investigation of the explosion of giant powder in the Coalburg mines a week ago has commenced. The coroner is conducting the investigation, and the full board of state prison inspectors are present. The evidence was principally that of convicts and was to the effect that the handling of powder in the mines was done very carelessly. The investigation may continue all the week. Nine of the sixteen men injured by the explosion are dead, and it is reported that two more will probably die tonight.

JOHN FITZGERALD, Observer.

Convincing Proof.

In many instances it has been proven that B. B B. (Botanic Blood Balm), made by the Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga., will cure blood poison in its worse phases, even when all other treatment fails.

A. P. Brunson, Atlanta, Ga., writes: "I had 24 running ulcers on one leg and 6 on the other, and felt greatly prostrated. I believe I actually swallowed a barrel of medicine, in vain efforts to cure the disease. With little hope I finally acted on the urgent advice of a friend, and got a bottle of B. B. B. I experienced a change, and my despondency was somewhat dispelled. I kept using it until I had taken sixteen bottles, and all the ulcers, rheumatism and all other horrors of blood poison have disappeared, and at last I am sound and well again, after an experience of twenty years of torture."

Robt. Ward, Maxey, Ga., writes: "My disease was pronounced a terrible tertiary form of blood poison. My face, head and shoulders were a mass of corruption, and finally the disease began eating my skull bones. My bones ached; my kidneys were deranged, I lost flesh and strength, and life became a burden. All said I must surely die, but nevertheless, when I had used ten bottles of B. B. B. I was pronounced well. Hundreds of scars can now be seen on me. I have now been well over twelve months." 1 w

YOUR OWN LIFE.

May Be Saved if You Will Think of Yourself a Moment and Then Act.

Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching piles," is a very common affliction, and not causing much pain is usually considered of small importance, and the disease is allowed to develop into a very grave affliction. The symptoms of this trouble are moisture and itching around the anus, pain across the hips (low down), diarrhœa, and irregular bowels, pain in lower part of same, indigestion, and a long train of nervous symptoms, differing in nearly every case); and in the female, who are more liable to be affected than the male, many symptoms usually attributed to female diseases. This disease is a very fruitful cause of many diseases refusing to yield to the treatment of your physician, and places you on the list of "incurables." The results of neglecting this affliction are terrible to contemplate, a general impairment of health, frequently so slow as to be scarcely noticeable, derangement of the nervous system, unfitting you for business or enjoyment of pleasure, the development of cancer and stricture of bowels, or loss of power of controlling same when happily death intervenes and relieves the sufferer of histortures. This is a terrible picture, but a true one. You may by neglect make this your own; can you take the risk when a cure is offered you? Treating rectal diseases exclusively for a number of years, I am able to offer you a cure without the usual pain attending the treatment employed by one who has not the experience in treating these diseases. The mode of treatment I employ for their cure is mild and is not unpleasant in anyway, as I use neither knife or caustic applications. I have cured many, and I am willing that they should tell you of my success if you wish it. I can furnish you their names if you prefer it. On my past success I am willing to stand or fall. Can I offer you anything fairer? If you wish to investigate what I have said, I extend to you an invitation to consult me, (free of cost,) and I will prove all I have said to the satisfaction of the most skeptical. All that tract or parcel of land situated lying and being in land lot No. 113 in the fourteenth district of said county, commencing on the west side of a forty-foot street at the corner of said forty-foot street and Mayson & Turner's Ferry road and running thence westerly along the north side of said Mayson & Turner's Ferry road 127 1-3 feet, thence northerly along the line of the Spencer property 150 feet, thence westerly along the line of said Spencer property 63 2-3 feet, thence northerly along the line of Hanlan's property 300 feet, more or less, thence easterly along the line of Thomas Finley's property 191 feet, thence southerly along the west side of said forty-foot street 450 feet, more or less to the commencing corner, containing two acres, more or less. Said land levied on to satisfy two fi fas. issued from the justice's court of the 469th district G. M., said county, against D. Y. Elliott alias Doctor Ewel Elliott, and Doctor Ewel Elliott alias D. Y. Elliott, in favor of H. H. Embry, plaintiff, and Samuel L. Moseley, transferree, and also one in favor of Randall & Bro., plaintiffs, and A. H. Brantly, transferree, against the said D Y. Elliott alias Doctor Ewel Elliott, and Doctor Ewel Elliott alias D. Y. Elliott, issued also from the court aforsaid, both returnable thereto.

Also at the same time and place, the interest of J. M. Wilson, said interest being a bond for titles from William Lowe to S. W. Peck, and afterward duly transferred to said J. M. Wilson, there being about one thousand dollars of purchase money notes now in the hands of W. M. Music, still due and unpaid, in and to the following property to wit: all that tract or parcel of land commencing at the north east corner of Wells and Ocmulgee streets, and running thence easterly, along the north side of Wells street a distance of one hundred and twenty feet, more or less, to a lot now owned by J. B. Redwine; thence northerly along said Redwine's line one hundred feet; thence easterly eighty feet along said Redwine's west and rear line to Hitson's line; thence northerly along Hitson's line one hundred feet, more or less, to a twelve-foot alley; thence westerly along the south side of said alley two hundred feet to Ocmulgee street; thence south on and along the easterly side of Ocmulgee street two hundred feet, more or less, to the beginning point; being parts of land lots Nos. 85 and 108 of the 14th district of originally Henry, now Fulton county, Georgia, and having three small tenement houses thereon; levied on as the property of J. M. Wilson to satisfy a fi fa. issued by W. A Wright, comptroller general of the state of Georgia, vs. J. M. Wilson, T C. of the county of Fulton, and securities.

Also, at the same time and place, the following property to-wit: A part of land lot 84, in the 14th district of originally Henry, now Fulton county, Georgia, commencing on the east side of Vine street, at a point 250 feet north of West Fair street, thence running north along Vine street 50 feet, thence east along W. C. Jackson's lot 176 feet, thence south 50 feet, thence west along A. J. Stewart's 176 feet to the beginning. Levied on as the property of W. H. Powell, to satisfy a fi fa. issued from Fulton superior court in favor of Jones & Fuller vs. W. H. Powell.

Also, at the same time and place, a certain city lot in the first ward of the city of Atlanta, adjoining Booth and Baer, and being part of land lot No. 84, in the 14th district of originally Henry, now Fulton county, Geor ia, (with improvements thereon) lot containing three-fourths of an acre, more or less. Levied on as the property of J. M. Latham to satisfy a fi fa. issued from Fulton superior court in favor of the State vs. John Winkfield, principal, and J. M. Latham, security; also one issued from the city court of Atlanta in favor of the Milburn Wagon Company vs. James M. Latham.

Also at the same time and place, the lands and tenemants of Emma Trottie, to-wit: All that tract or parcel of land, situated, lying and being in the city of Atlanta, state of Georgia, county of Fulton, being part of land lot No. 108, in the 14th district of originally Henry, now Fulton county, commencing at a point on the southern side of Whitehall street, fifty feet west of Ocumulgee street, and running west along the southern side of Whitehall street fifty feet, thence in a southern direction 200 feet parallel with Ocumulgee street; thence easterly fifty feet, parallel with Whitehall street; thence northerly 200 feet, parallel with Ocumulgee street, to the beginning point. Levied on as the property of Emma Trottie to satisfy a fi. fa issued from Fulton superior court in favor of the Empire Loan and Building association vs. Emma Trottie.

Also at the same time and place, one thousand shares of the capital stock of the Southern Alliance Publishing company, of Fulton county, Ga., of the par value of one dollar each, levied on as the property of defendants, Burgess & Huguley, to satisfy two justice court fi fas. issued from 1234th district G. M., Fulton county, Ga., in favor of C. L. and T. J. Delbridge vs. Burgess & Huguley. Notice given officers of the corporation and defendants.

Also at the same time and place, one lot of land in ward 1, city of Atlanta, fronting fifty feet on West Hunter street, running back same width one hundred and fifty feet, known as city lot No. 145, West Hunter street, lying in Fulton county, Georgia. Levied on as the property of defendants, Emma Hawes and R. R. Hawes; written notice given to tenant in possession, as required by law, to satisfy four justice court fi fas. in favor of W. R. Phillips, Jr., & Co. vs. Mrs. Emma Hawes and R. R. Hawes.

Also at the same time and place, a lot situated No. 192 Markham street, corner Walnut, fronting 60 feet on Markham, running back 100 feet, adjoining Lewis Alexander on the east, on west by Walnut street, on the north by Markham street; levied on as the property of Elbert Jennings, deft in fi fa. Written notice given tenant residing on said land, to satisfy a fi fa. issued from 1026th district G. M., Fulton county, Georgia, in favor of W. R. Phillips, Jr., & Co. vs. Elbert Jennings.

L. P. THOMAS, Sheriff.

STATE OF GEORGIA—FULTON COUNTY, TO the Superior Court of said county: The petition of C. A. Breen, W. H. R. Schroeder, L. H. Fenn, Jno. Zuber, L. R. Miller, J. A. Harris, G. B. Dawson, A. Schaff, J. W. Strickland, Philip Schwartz, John E. Schmidt, Eugene Taylor, Fred Koch, S. L. Harris, C. E. Pope, B. M. Haubold, Edd. Klapper, respectfully, shows:

That they desire for themselves and associates to be incorporated for a period of twenty (20) years, with the privilege of renewal at the end of that time, under the corporate name of The Toilers' Home Investment Company.

The object of said corporation is pecuniary gain to its stockholders, and to this end they desire to carry on the business of buying, owning, renting, leasing and selling all kinds of property, both real and personal, to sell, convey, mortgage and otherwise to dispose of or encumber the same, as a natural person could do; to erect houses on its own land, sell or lease the same; to negotiate loans for any person and to guarantee the repayment of both principal and interest; the principal power the said company desire is the right to sell homes on the installment plan, buying and selling improved or unimproved real estate, and to sell to anyone desiring a home, to loan its own money to its stockholders, or to others in accordance with an act of the general assembly granting certain privileges to building and loan associations, and other associations of like character.

The chief office of said company will be in the city of Atlanta, said county, and the place of doing such business as aforesaid will be in Fulton county, with the privilege of establishing branch offices of said corporation anywhere in said state.

The capital stock of said company shall consist of five hundred (500) shares, subject to be increased when the stockholders desire, to one thousand shares of the par value, when fully paid up, of two hundred dollars ($200) per shars. But petitioners desire the right to organize and commence business when one hundred (100) shares have been subscribed for; said stock to be paid in monthly installments of five dollars ($5.00) per share.

Petitioners pray that all other rights and powers belonging to corporations under the laws of this state may be conferred upon them;

And they will ever pray;

ANDREW E. CALHOUN,
Attorney for petitioners.

Filed in office, this the 1st day of April, 1890,

State of Georgia Bonds

Proposals for Bids.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, STATE OF GA.,
ATLANTA, GA., March 5, 1890.

BY AUTHORITY and in persuance of an "Act" of the General Assembly of the State of Georgia, entitled "An Act to authorize the Governor of this State to issue bonds of the State and negotiate same, for the purpose of raising money with which to pay off an amount of the public debt, wich falls due October 1, 1890, not otherwise provided for, and for other purposes connected therewith:" Approved October 23, 1889.

BIDS will be received at the Treasury of the State, in the city of Atlanta, Georgia, until 10 o'clock a. m. on Wednesday, the seventh (7) day of May, 1890, for a—

SERIES of Bonds of the State of Georgia, which will not exceed in the agregate ONE MILLION NINE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($1,900,000) and in the event certain moneys are realized from sale of public property now being advertised, which money can only be used in the payment of the public debt; then, said issue shall be one million nine hundred thousand dollars less the amount realized from sale of said property.

Said bonds to be dated July 1, 1890, and to be of the denomination of one thousand dollars ($1,000) each.

One hundred thousand dollars of the principal of said bonds to mature January 1, 1917, and one hundred thousand dollars of the principal of said bonds to mature on January 1st of each year thereafter, until this series of bonds is exhausted, and shall be payable both "Principal and Interest," at the office of the Treasury of the State, in the city of Atlanta, Georgia, and also in the city of New York at such place as the Governor may elec.

To each of said bonds conpons will be attached the interest, which will be paid semi-annually, the first day of January and July.

The interest on said bonds, under a provision of said Act shall not exceed four and one-half per cent. per annum, but bids are invited for the entire series bearing a lower rate of interest, viz:

Four (4) per cent. per annum! Three and one half (3½) per cent. perannum. Three (3) per cent. per annum.

All of said bonds to be delivered and paid for, at the Treasury of the State, or at the Fiscal agency of the state in the city of New York, (as the Governor may determine) on the 1st day of July, 1890.

Said bonds will be non-taxable by any authority whatsoever in this State, and are convertable at the option of the holder into registered bonds of this State.

All bids must be accompanied by a deposit of Fifty Thousand Dollars with the Treasurer of Georgia, which may be made in a check for that amount, certified by a solvent bank, approved by the Governor and Treasurer.

THE RIGHT IS HEREBY RESERVED TO REJECT ANY AND ALL BIDS, and under a provision of the act authorizing the sale, no bid will be received at a price less than par. By the Governor.

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, April 8.—The stock market today was intensely dull in the regular list, and some animation in the unlisted department, with a few wide changes in specialties, served to save dealings from utter stagnation. The news of the day, especially that from the west, was rather discouraging. This restricted trading, but failed to cause any weakness in the market. The features of the day was the unusual activity and strength in Manhattan, which not only had the advantage of large earnings of late, but also reports of an advantageous settlement of a large number of damage suits against the company. Among the low-priced shares, Wheeling and Lake Erie was again prominent and intimations from its friends that the stock is to be advanced, had their effect. Missouri Pacific was remarkably quiet, although there is understood to be a large short interest in the stock, which, in the small amount offering, makes no effort to cover, which would undoubtedly advance its price sharply. Rio Grande and Western stocks spurted up sharply, but Evansville and Terre Haute, whose last sale last week was at 120, dropped back to 111 today.

The close was dull and steady, at about first prices. Trading in listed stocks reached only 56,000 shares, and unlisted 27,000 shares. The only stock reaching five figures was sugar, with 11,000.

Exchange quiet but firm at 486@488.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, April 8—[Special.]—Liverpool remains closed today, and business therefore remains restricted, but a firmer tone is to be noted, as traders look for an improved demand from Manchester tomorrow, basing this opinion upon the light movement of cotton to the ports this week. The tone of the market is firm, as sellers refuse to sell freely at present prices, and as the demand is expected to be greater they believe their holdings will be taken at a higher range of values. So strong is the statistical position in America that the opinion is almost universal that the spinners will be obliged to resort to short time earlier this year than last, though at the moment the visible supply exceeds that of last season by some 225,000 bales. This season's crop in sight on Saturday was 6,932,000 bales, or almost exactly last season's yield, and whatever cotton appears in sight from now on to September 1, will be an increase over the crop of 1889. Meanwhile the strength of this crop is carrying the prices of the winter months until they are practically selling upon a basis of 5¾c, and the fall positions at 6d. Receipts at New Orleans tomorrow are estimated at 1,600 bales.

HUBBARD, PRICE & CO.

The Sun's Cotton Review.

NEW YORK, April 8—Futures opened at a hardening tendency, and afterward improved, but closed dull. The advance was due in part to higher spot quotations; but received its chief impulse from speculative operations in anticipation of a better report from Liverpool when that market shall open tomorrow after the Easter holidays. Another feature of dealings was a return of August to its leading position in volume of transactions with prices showing more relative strength.

Cotton on the spot was 1-16c dearer but entirely nominal.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, April 8—Wheat—A good business was transacted today, and the feeling was unsettled and somewhat feverish. Fluctuations at times were rapid and frequent, and the failure of a prominent St. Louis trader helped to unsettle affairs somewhat. The market opened rather weak at a shade under yesterday's closing and immediately declined ¼@⅜c, then advanced ⅜@½c, fluctuated some little time and then receded ½c for May and ⅜c for July, but later advanced 1c for May and ⅞c for July, and the closing was ½c higher for May and ⅛c lower for July than yesterday. There was not much news of any kind from the outside, and the market was governed by speculative influences.

Corn was traded in to a fair extent, the market ruling a little irregular within comparatively narrow limits. The bulk of the business was in May and July, the latter in particular receiving unusual attention. The straits were reported open, and vessel men were preparing to move out a fleet.

Oats were active and steadier, but prices were confined to a smaller range. The closing prices showed a slight gain over those of yesterday.

Mess pork—A fairly active business was done, but the feeling was somewhat unsettled. Early prices advanced 10, but later the feeling grew easier, prices settling back again 7½@10c. Toward the close the feeling was steady with a greater portion of the advance lost.

Lard—Trading was light, and the feeling was steady. Prices changed very slightly.

Short rib sides—Only a fair business was transacted, and the feeling was steady.

The following was the range in the leading futures in Chicago today:

MADDOX, RUCKER & CO.,
BANKERS,

Having added $50,000 to our banking property, we are now arranging to move our office on the corner of our block, where we will be in a more prominent position, with better facilities, and we now propose to give more attention to the banking department of our business.

We solicit the accounts of banks, merchants and individuals, and will extend every accommodation consistent with sound banking.

Will negotiate loans on marketable securities. Allow interests on time deposits.

Having repeated requests, from various sources, to buy and sell stocks and bonds, we have concluded to deal generally in miscellaneous securities.

Will buy and sell on commission, state, municipal and railroad bonds, and all kinds of stocks.

We can place first-class investment securities to advantage, and we invite proposals from cities and counties, when issuing bonds.

We do a general banking business and invite correspondence. finca 1col
